A FRIGHTFUL SKIN DISEASE.

Sufferings Intense. Head nearly raw. Body covered with Sores. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

Messrs STEVENS & BRUNER, Monroe, N C:

DEAR SIRS,—About two months ago on your recommendation I bought a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, one box Cuticura Salve and one cake of Cuticura Soap for my son aged thirteen years, who has been afflicted with eczema for a long time, and I am pleased to say that I believe the remedies have cured him. His sufferings were intense, his head being almost raw, his ears being gone except the gristle, and his body was covered with sores. His condition was frightful to behold. The sores have now all disappeared, his skin is healthy, eyes bright, cheerful in disposition, and is working every day. My neighbors are witnesses to this remarkable cure, and the doubting ones are requested to call or write me, or any of my neighbors. WM. S. STEPHENSON

THE POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO:

GENTLEMEN,—Mr Wm S Stephenson of this county brought his son to town to-day to let us see him, and to show us what Cuticura Remedies had done for him. This is the case referred to in our letter to you some time ago. To look at the boy now one would suppose that there had never been anything the matter with him—seems to be in perfect health. We have written and herewith inclose what his father has to say about the matter—wrote it just as he dictated.

We are selling quite a quantity of Cuticura Remedies, and hear nothing but praises for them. We regard the Cuticura Remedies the best in the market, and shall do all we can to promote their sale.

Yours truly, STEVENS & BRUNER,

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

The Department Puzzled by the Port Townsend Cases.

TARIFF DEBATE IN THE SENATE

A Fruitless Discussion in the House—Reports of Governors of a Number of Territories—The Resources of Idaho

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—The collector of customs at Port Townsend W T yesterday telegraphed to the treasury department as follows: "The American steamship Ancon from Alaska with thirty laborers has just arrived at port. The Ancon did not touch at any foreign port but passed through foreign water. Can Chinese laborers be permitted to land?"

Assistant Secretary Maynard telegraphed: "The department cannot answer until advised how the Chinamen came to be in Alaska."

THE CASES IN QUESTION

PORT TOWNSEND, Oct 16.—The Chinese brought down from Alaska on the steamer Ancon last night are not permitted to land and are still aboard the vessel. No information has been received from the secretary of the treasury by the collector of customs as to what disposition will be made of the Chinamen. An inference from dispatches received indicates that the question is engrossing the president and cabinet's attention and that a special meeting is in progress at Washington to settle the problem.

The steamer Mexico came up from San Francisco last night with three Chinese passengers aboard who had been given assurance by Collector Hager of San Francisco that they would be allowed to land here. On receipt of advices from Washington they were not allowed to leave the steamer and ordered returned to San Francisco.

The Chinamen arriving from Honolulu on the bark Atlanta reshipped on the ship Wm H McGilvrey for Valparaiso, thereby saving considerable official correspondence.

THE TARIFF DEBATE.

It Turns upon the Proposition to Make Free Alcohol Used in the Arts.

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—The senate resumed consideration of the tariff bill. In the course of a long speech read very rapidly Cockrell contrasted the position of the two political parties as between the question of high protection and that of moderate rates of duties. He argued against the republican policy as incorporated in the senate bill and quoted from the speeches of such men as Senators Allison and Wilson of Iowa in past years in opposition to high protective duties, while on the part of the democracy he denied that it was a free trade party, and read an extract from Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress" to show that no proposition for the establishment of free trade had ever been seriously made in the United States. In connection with his speech Cockrell filed a communication from the commissioner of internal revenue to the effect that the removal of the tax on alcohol used in the arts and sciences would lead to extensive frauds on the revenue, as it would not be difficult to make it fit for consumption.

Allison questioned the correctness of the commissioner's statement, and said the system of using methylated spirits in the arts was allowed in England and Germany and that the concurrent testimony in these countries was that spirits could not be demethylated except by distillation. Vest asserted that wood alcohol could be converted into pure whisky and said that within the last three days he had seen the process carried on with a machine that cost only $72. The orator had been therefore right in recently objecting to the proposition.

Allison said that if the senator from Missouri had such a machine he could in his bureau drawer manufacture whisky.

Vest asked Allison to use another form of expression, and not speak of the machine as his (Vest's). He had seen it in the office of the internal revenue commissioner.

Spooner of Wisconsin next addressed the senate. He excused himself for reading from a prepared speech, but said his speech consisted largely of extracts from testimony given by boards of trade and other bodies before an English parliamentary commission, showing that the result of free trade in its home were not satisfactory and that there was a clamor for its overthrow and demand for its abandonment. He intended to prove, he said, that under the influence of free trade in Great Britain there had been for twelve years past, with slight intermissions, a serious depression in industry and trade and a depression of agriculture which defied parallel. As against this he pointed to the growth and prosperity of the United States under the protective system. The object lesson thus afforded, he said, was unanswerable in favor of the protective system and against trying an experiment that would hamper the well being of labor and the growth and development of the country.

After an executive session the senate adjourned.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS

A Discussion of the Adjournment Resolution That Ends in Nothing

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—After the appointment of the house members of the joint committee to investigate the alleged mismanagement of the Washington aqueduct tunnel matter, Oates of Alabama called up his resolution for final adjournment on the 1[illegible]th inst and offered an amendment fixing the date at the 18th.

Sowden of Pennsylvania moved to make the 1[illegible]th the 2[illegible]th.

Richardson of Tennessee moved to refer to the committee on ways and means.

Oates said he had previously offered an adjournment resolution and it was referred to the ways and means committee and never reported back.

McMillan of that committee said every democrat in the country admitted that it was a wise thing that the committee did not report it back. Had the resolution been passed congress would have adjourned before the senate committee reported its tariff bill, and the house bill would have been fired at during the campaign. Now the senate admitted that there should be a reduction of $73,000,000.

Breckenridge of Kentucky moved to postpone further consideration of the resolution until to-morrow; agreed to. At 3:10 adjourned.

NEW MEXICO

Gov. Ross, in His Annual Report Speaks of Land Grants—Irrigation Etc.

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—Gov. Ross of New Mexico in his annual report says of land grants that compared with the aggregate acreage of the territory the area of these grants is not large, but comprises several thousand holdings. The greater portion of these claimed grants are but illy defined as to exterior boundaries, and in the increasing pressure of settlement the unoccupied portions are liable to be settled upon, and endless and serious trouble ensue, which will become more serious from year to year so long as legislation for settlement is delayed.

A bill now pending before congress for the admission of New Mexico provides that 250,000 acres shall be devoted to the establishment of reservoirs for irrigating purposes. This the governor thinks would be ample for the purpose and satisfactory.

The population of the territory has increased during the year about 10,000. The aggregate value of taxable property is $44,151,929. The progress made in agriculture during the year is very marked, and progress has also been made in educational interests.

Fixed in Either Event.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—It is thought here that George L Rives, assistant secretary of state, may be the successor of President Barnard of Columbia College New York, but only on condition that Mr Cleveland is not the next president. It is said should Mr Cleveland be re-elected Mr Rives would receive another appointment under him. Rives is a graduate and also a trustee of the college.

IDAHO'S RESOURCES

Gov Stevenson Estimates the Population at One Hundred Thousand

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—E A Stevenson, governor of Idaho, estimates the population of that territory at about 100,000. The value of the taxable property is given at $21,268,422, which his report says is less than half its actual value in cash.

About 160,000 acres of public land has been entered during the year. Agricultural and grazing statistics are given.

The report from the United States assay office shows that the gold, silver and lead product of the territory for the year was $8,905,145, of which gold was $2,522,209, silver $3,422,667 and lead $2,960,270.

The governor recommends that the Indians be given their lands and the balance of the reservations opened for settlement; that the people of the territories be given the right to vote for president and vice president; that the territory be given the right to lease school lands and apply the proceeds to the school fund; that the mail facilities be increased; and that all crimes committed by Indians on reservations be tried in the United States courts at the expense of the United States.

DAKOTA

The Territory Marching Steadily Forward on the Road to Prosperity

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—Gov Church of Dakota in his annual report says: There has been a gain in the population of the territory during the year of 72,340, in a total population of 640,823. The quantity of land newly filed on and purchased for settlement during the year was two and a half million acres. There is an awakened interest in all that pertains to education and an increased number of pupils in the higher schools, with a marked tendency towards one general system for the territory.

The governor inclosed the report of F R Carpenter of the School of Mines, which states that the mining industry in the Black Hills is taking on new life. As to the discovery of tin in the Black Hills the governor remarks that there is not to-day a producing tin mine nor a pound of Dakota tin in the markets.

The governor renews his recommendation that the law preventing aliens from acquiring extensive tracts of land be amended so that capitalists or money corporations can loan money in the territory on land, and in case they become owners to be allowed a certain time in which to dispose of it.

In conclusion he again urges that Dakota be admitted as a state into the Union.

Changes in the Adjutant General's Department

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—In pursuance of an order issued from the office of the adjutant general of the army some months ago, Col Chauncey McKeever, assistant adjutant general, arrived here Saturday afternoon and reported for duty at the war department, relieving Lieut Col Oliver D Greene, who by the same order is to take the station at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. It is very likely this change will be followed by others in the adjutant general's department both here and elsewhere. Many think there is to be a general shifting about among the officers on duty at the department. The arrival and reporting of Lieut Col Vincent at army headquarters gives another chance for a change which it is thought will be improved. Some are of the opinion that Col Sheridan will be given a division in the department in order to allow him to remain in Washington, and it is thought he may possibly relieve Maj Ward, who has been here for some time.

Only One Violation

WASHINGTON, Oct 15.—The secretary of the treasury to-day sent a letter to the house in response to a resolution of inquiry as to whether the navigation laws are being violated by vessels engaged in the coastwise trade in being owned or commanded by foreigners. The department replies that there has been but one violation of the law. No offenses are reported as having been committed on the Pacific coast.

Confirmations

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—The senate has made the following confirmations: H B Shields, receiver of public moneys, Seattle W T; J A Moore, U S marshal for Nevada.

Carlos A Soteldo has been appointed consul general of Venezuela to the United States, with headquarters at Washington.

A Proposition for a Recess

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—Senator Allison contemplates offering a resolution providing for recess until November 19, but not to take effect until the senators present shall have finished speaking on the tariff bill, probably day after to-morrow.

CABLE NOTES.

Italy and the Powers

LONDON, Oct 16.—In an interview with the Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Rome Premier Crispi said to-day: "Italy desires peace, and in that desire she has always allies in Germany, Austria and England. Emperor William's visit cements that alliance." Premier Crispi also said he found it difficult to believe that France had not tried sedulously to check and humiliate Italy in Massowah and Tunis affairs. Italy was unable to accept such slights with undignified tameness. He willingly admitted the importance of an English alliance to Italy.

A Disastrous Explosion

LONDON, Oct 16.—A quantity of petroleum in the forehold of the steamer Ville De Calais at Calais from Philadelphia exploded to-day. The vessel afterwards sank. Two persons were killed and thirty or forty injured. The explosion caused the utmost alarm throughout Calais. Hundreds of windows were shattered by the concussion. Two persons were killed and many injured.

THE FIELD OF POLITICS

Mayor Hewitt Makes a Proposition to Tammany.

HE WILL SUPPORT CLEVELAND

Blaine Journeys to the Tippecanoe Battle Ground—Thurman Goes from Indianapolis to Fort Wayne—Political Notes

NEW YORK, Oct 16.—Mayor Hewitt has made public a letter addressed to a committee of the citizens' mass meeting which recently renominated him to the mayoralty. He accepts the nomination but will be glad to withdraw if Tammany will consent to let the citizens' committee choose a democrat other than himself or the Tammany nominee. Mr Hewitt denounces Tammany hall as a secret political and trust organization that seeks irresponsible control of city affairs for its political purposes. Regarding criticism of his views on immigration and citizenship he states that he was the author of that plank in the democratic national platform of 1884 which opposed immigration of foreign contract labor or the admission of servile races unfitted by habits, training, religion or kindred for absorption with the great body of our people or for the citizenship which our laws confer; and, to the allegation of his being a knownothing, he says in conclusion: "I have not and never had any sympathy with the knownothing movement which sought to deny offices to citizens of foreign birth and toleration to religious belief. But on the general question of preserving the purity of suffrage and the dignity of citizenship I stand where I always have stood, on the declaration of the democratic platform. Just as I am a warm advocate of revenue reform and intend to support and vote for the democratic candidates for president and vice president, I stand in this struggle for law and order first and then for individual liberty in all respects where it has not been restricted by law. To all unnecessary restrictions of individual liberty I am unalterably opposed."

MR. BLAINE AND PARTY

Speech Making and Enthusiastic Reception Along the Route

NEW ALBANY, Ind, Oct 16.—Mr Blaine and party left this morning for Lafayette. There will probably be brief speech-making at the principal points en route. Mr Blaine speaks at Lafayette on Wednesday.

THE FIRST DEMONSTRATION

SALEM, Ind, Oct 16.—At Providence, Indiana, the first demonstration took place. Mr Blaine came out upon the platform in response to calls and shook hands till the train started. At Salem 200 people cheered lustily as Mr Blaine appeared. Gen Hovey and Corporal Tanner spoke briefly. The weather is rainy.

PROTECTION FOR BUILDING STONE

BEDFORD, Ind, Oct 16.—A large crowd greeted the party here. In response to calls Mr Blaine said: "It is the effort of the democratic party to persuade the Western states that a protective tariff is all for the benefit of the East. I know this town and country is very largely interested in building stone. Heretofore you have had a protective duty against stones in Canada. They have various and valuable stones in the dominion, and the Mills bill strikes down all the protection which the tariff has hitherto given to building stones in the United States. If that bill is passed and becomes a law, all building stones in Canada along the St Lawrence and along the great lakes will have cheap transportation to all the cities in the great Northwestern states and they can reach these points cheaper than you can, who have to transport your building stones by rail. They will have cheaper transportation, and therefore, instead of putting you on an equality with the building stones of the Dominion of Canada, the Mills bill goes clear over and gives the dominion stone an advantage and puts you at a disadvantage."

THE RUSH TO LAFAYETTE

LAFAYETTE, Oct 16.—At Greencastle the crowd numbered a couple of thousand and was one of the most enthusiastic of the day. Col Snowden spoke.

Mr Blaine and party were at dinner when Roachdale was reached at 1:30, but he appeared on the platform in response to calls from about 200, who declared, when asked by Col Snowden, that Roachdale was democratic always.

At Ladoga, the next town, about 400 were present, including many school children, who cheered repeatedly for Harrison. Mr Blaine said: "I have no word to say except in congratulation. Republicans are everywhere zealous and at work and confident, and we intend to elect Benjamin Harrison president of the United States." [Prolonged cheers.]

Half past 2 brought the party to Crawfordsville Junction, where a stop of ten minutes was made and 500 people demanded to hear from the Maine man, who appeared and said: "My friends, I have only to say hurrah for Harrison." In the crowd was a gentleman, John Wingate, wearing an ancient broad brimmed white beaver, which he handed to Blaine for inspection, stating that his grandfather had worn it in the 1840 campaign. Blaine held the hat out, saying as he did so, "Hurrah for Harrison," and the crowd responded with vigor. Then Blaine returned the venerable hat to its owner, remarking, "It helped to elect one Harrison and will help to elect another." This sentiment elicited cheers.

AT LAFAYETTE

LAFAYETTE, Ind, Oct. 16.—The Blaine party arrived in this city at 3:40 P M. About 3000 persons greeted the distinguished visitor at the station, although the weather was bad and the streets muddy. It was Blaine's desire that there be no demonstration on his arrival, and in charge of a committee he was driven direct to the residence of Mr Brown B Brockenbrough. Sixteen stops were made on the trip from New Albany to Lafayette, a distance of 200 miles. A conservative estimate of the number of persons gathered at the stations en route and terminal places the figures at 30,000. Extensive preparations have been made for to-morrow's demonstration, and if the weather is pleasant it is calculated that from 20,000 to 40,000 persons will be present. The historic battle field of Tippecanoe, where the demonstration occurs, is seven miles north of the city. Gen Alger, ex-Secretary of the Navy R W Thompson, Gen Hovey, Gen Gibson, Corporal Tanner and other distinguished speakers will arrive in the morning. Blaine will reach the battle ground about 2 o'clock and speak shortly after his arrival. This will close his canvass in Indiana. The celebration lasts two days. Gov Foraker of Ohio and others will speak there Thursday.

THURMAN'S MOVEMENTS

The Judge Cheered Along the Route From Indianapolis to Fort Wayne.

FORT WAYNE, Ind, Oct 16.—In accordance with the announced programme Judge Thurman and party took the regular train for this city at the Indianapolis depot. A hearty cheer was given by the crowd there as a "God speed" to the judge and party.

Arcadia is a small station whose democrats had telegraphed ahead asking a speech, and when the train came to a stop a couple of hundred persons were in waiting with banners. Without waiting for an introduction to the people, whose cheers showed that none was needed, Judge Thurman and Gov Gray spoke briefly. Among the banners in the crowd was one with pictures of Cleveland and Thurman with mottoes under them. This caught Judge Thurman's eye, and when Gov Gray concluded he pointed to it, saying: "There is the best thing I have seen yet. 'Give us four years more of honest government.' That is the banner under which you will march to victory."

Atlanta cheered for Thurman and Gray. As the train pulled out an enthusiast shouted, "Now holler again," and they did so.

At Wabash a crowd of 1000 cheered at the sight of the judge, who introduced Governor Gray, and they shouted more than ever.

Five hundred Andrews people and many more at Huntington showed their democracy by hearty applause at the sight of the judge.

Several thousand persons were at the Fort Wayne hotel, where another large crowd in waiting gave them welcome. The judge is in good health and expecting a big time to-morrow.

THE BUSINESS MEN'S PARADE.

Democratic Estimates of the Number in Line Dwindle Sadly

NEW YORK, Oct 16.—There continues to be much talk over what was called a business men's parade last Saturday night in honor of the democratic national ticket. Sunday morning the democratic papers came out with startling estimates of the number in the procession, intending thereby to convey the impression that the business men were overwhelmingly in favor of Cleveland and Thurman. The World estimated the number in the parade at 2[illegible]00, the Herald at 1[illegible]000 and the Times at 8,[illegible]60. All of these papers support the democratic ticket. An actual and impartial count was made by several members of the stock exchange during the parade and the figures were set down as 5494. In this number may be included the musicians. The parade was really a great fiasco.

Clerks Pairing on the Election

WASHINGTON, Oct 16.—The clerks in the departments here are putting the practice of pairing employed in congress to novel use. It is said that many clerks of the republican persuasion who feel that they cannot afford to go home to vote are pairing off with democratic clerks from their states, who are likewise pecuniarily embarrassed. By this arrangement the relative standing of the two parties is left unchanged and the clerks save money.

CANADA AND THE UNION.

Sir Richard Cartwright Explains His Views to His Constituents

INGERSOLL, Ont, Oct 16.—Sir Richard Cartwright addressed his constituents here to-night. In reference to the difficulties now existing between Canada and the United States he said the conservatives pointed out a confederation of the colonies as the solution of the difficulty. So far as Canada is concerned, if a federation was to be desired at all we must be assured in some way or other of firm and lasting friendship with the United States, who ought now to be and who he hoped would be at no distant date true and staunch allies of the mother country. The reform party proposed to recognize the position frankly. If the people of the United States were convinced that Canada entertained friendly feelings toward them, there would not be the least difficulty. The reformers proposed to break down the barriers between the two countries and thus give the people what some of the most rabid of his opponents were forced to admit was their natural market.

STILL UNSETTLED

The Chicago Strikers Likely to Cause More Trouble—A Conference

CHICAGO, Oct 16.—After a session protracted into the morning hours last night's meeting of north side street car conductors and drivers decided to send a committee to President Yerkes to-day to learn precisely what his interpretation of the agreement is. Cars are still running, but it is believed that unless further concessions are made another strike will result.

The inexperience of the new gripmen results in cables being broken in several places. Twenty cars were stalled this evening in the La Salle street tunnel and just when the traffic is usually busiest.

A riot occurred at North avenue and Halstead street. Two horse cars driven by new men were showered with rocks and nearly demolished by angry crowds on the sidewalks. Only the timely arrival of a patrol wagon saved the new men from being stoned to death within the cars where they had taken refuge. A number of passengers were hurt by flying missiles before escaping from proximity to the new men.

MORE CARELESSNESS.

Another Accident on the Lehigh Valley Road and Seven Men are Killed.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa, Oct 16.—By an accident on the Lehigh Valley road this morning seven persons were killed and twenty wounded. The Pennsylvania freight ran into the Lehigh valley gravel train. There is no telegraph at the scene of the accident and the particulars are unobtainable.

THE PARTICULARS

MAUCH CHUNK, Penn, Oct 16.—The construction train was unloading ties at Tamanend siding on the Pottsville branch, when the fast Pennsylvania freight dashed into the construction cars. Of forty Hungarians at work unloading ties, six were killed and twenty-six wounded. A brakeman of the Pennsylvania train was also killed. Twenty freight cars were wrecked. It is feared that many of the wounded who had to wait three hours before help came will die. The names of but four of the dead have been ascertained, as follows: Joseph Lovenski, Mike Cathlicki, Ludwig Pike, John Levenki. The other dead went by numbers.

STEEL RAILROAD COACHES.

The San Francisco Inventor is Successful at Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct 16.—C W M Smith of San Francisco is at the Grand Pacific and will be there until Wednesday, when he will start for the Pacific coast. He brought here a patent for a steel railroad coach and is in a fair way to accomplish his mission, the organization of a company composed principally of Chicago people for the manufacture of these cars. Smith had all the capital required offered him for the enterprise by capitalists in California, but he recognizes the fact that for such an undertaking there is no place like Chicago. He says it is settled that before many months within five miles of this city there will be in operation a company manufacturing railroad coaches constructed of steel. It is said they will not telescope, burn or [illegible].

Speculators Are Wary About Trading in December Options

CHICAGO, Oct 16.—Professional speculators are now doing trading in December wheat, while miscellaneous trading has gone into May. Fears of manipulation have kept outsiders from going into December and have also induced many of those who were already in it to draw out. A large contingent of the latter class have sold out their December on account of fears of further breaks.

A MAN CUT IN TWO

The Terrible Accident Happens at the Chehalis Sawmill

WINLOCK, W T, Oct 16.—A horrible accident occurred at the Chehalis sawmill this morning which throws a chill over the entire community. A man named Wayne Hostetter, engaged in moving slabs from the saw, was in the act of stooping over to raise a large one, when the saw teeth caught in his clothing. In the twinkling of an eye he was pulled on to the large circular and cut completely in two, his head and shoulders falling on one side and the lower part of his body on the other, being thrown about forty feet. The body was otherwise mutilated and presented a horrible appearance. Deceased was an industrious and respectable citizen and leaves a wife and five children. The Remains of Archbishop Seghers on the Way to Victoria for Burial

PORT TOWNSEND, Oct 16.—News has been received here through miners returning from the Yukon river, Alaska, concerning the hardships, privations and noteworthy incidents occurring in the Alaska region this year.

The remains of Father Seghers, the Catholic missionary priest who was murdered by Fuller, now in the government penitentiary at McNeil's island, in a lonely Indian encampment on the Yukon river last year, were disinterred at St. Michael's island from the old Russian burying ground, embalmed in alcoholic spirits and taken aboard the government war ship Thetis. The Thetis proceeded to Ounalaska, thence to Sitka, where she will start for Victoria with the murdered priest's remains for burial as soon as a pilot can be obtained.

There arrived at St. Michael's island last August in open boats from the placer mines 700 miles up the Yukon river seventy-two miners. They were half starved and nearly frozen to death, and after a detention of thirty days, took passage on the Thetis, Capt. Emery, for Sitka. Among the party was the second white woman who ever penetrated the wilds of the Yukon. She started for San Francisco on a schooner from Golovin bay. The first woman entering that region was murdered a few years ago by Indians.

Strange and Perilous Voyage of a British Ship.

HARD FIGHTING WITH MUTINEERS

The Republican Candidate for Mayor—Congressmen Welcomed Home—Personal and General—The Drop in Sugar

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—A strange tale of hardship [illegible] voyage which ends in the unveiling of a mystery of a murder in this city two years ago has just come to hand. Last Sunday evening the British ship Childwell, Capt. Watson, arrived here two hundred and twenty-nine days from Bombay, but being immediately ordered into quarantine but little was learned of the voyage until now.

A few days after leaving Bombay the captain discovered that there were several stowaways on board. They were set to work, but soon it was found they were conspiring with the crew to overpower the officers and take command of the ship. Meeting the ship Matterhorn, Watson arranged to have this ship take charge of the stowaways. On looking for the stowaways one of them knocked down the chief officer with a crowbar and tried to strangle him. The second officer, in assisting, was nearly choked to death. Capt. Watson then went down into the forehold, when the stowaways charged out and nearly killed him with missiles. He went down, however, and after a struggle and the firing of several shots by the captain they were overpowered and placed on the Matterhorn.

Then the crew mutinied. Later they demanded that the ship be taken to Hong Kong, saying she was unseaworthy. The captain refused, when they broke open the galley door and killed and cooked the live stock.

A storm coming up, the crew were again ordered to work, but instead showed fight, and only at the point of Winchester rifles were again locked up in the forecastle.

The storm had caused the vessel to leak, and for two days the captain and a small crew ran the vessel without a man of them closing an eye. Then the captain sailed for Manila and had the ship repaired, and the crew still refusing to work, they and the ship were ordered to Hong Kong for trial. Here the crew were found guilty and were given various sentences.

After starting with a new crew for this port a typhoon struck them. Most of the crew were taken sick, one fell from the topsail breaking an arm, another knocked a hip out of joint, the seas tore away nearly every sail, and the fresh supply of poultry and live stock were all drowned. The typhoon lasted three days.

Afterward the vessel experienced a heavy shock of earthquake, causing the crew to become frightened, thinking she had struck a rock. When near the coast of Japan another typhoon was encountered which took away a second supply of sails. The captain said: "I verily believed I would never reach land."

When near the Hawaiian islands the ship was struck by a western gale, which stove in the cabin and deck houses, and swept overboard everything on deck.

Finally she reached here, and it is now understood that the boatswain on the Childwell has confessed to a knowledge of the facts regarding the murder of Policeman Osburn in this city two years ago, and which has ever since remained one of the mysteries of the decade.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE

He Owned the Pioneer Drug Store of Portland—His Career

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—Charles R. Story, republican nominee for mayor, is one of the earliest pioneers of California. He is a native of Massachusetts and was engaged in the drug business of that state for several years until accounts of the gold discoveries in California reached the East, when he in company with fifty others bought the bark Lagrange, loaded her principally with lumber and set sail for California, arriving here in the spring of '49. The vessel was taken up to Sacramento, where the cargo of lumber was sold for $400 per thousand. Mr Story then returned to San Francisco, where he started a drug store. He also sent a stock of drugs, an apothecary and a physician to Portland, where his representatives waited three months to learn whether the coming city was to be at Portland or Oregon City. Mr Story's establishment was the pioneer drug store of Oregon, and is now embodied in the house of Snell, Heitshu & Woodard. Mr Story has taken an active part in the politics of the city for a number of years. He has just been elected secretary of the Home Mutual Insurance Company for the nineteenth time.

CONGRESSMEN WELCOMED HOME.

An Enthusiastic Greeting Given to Messrs Morrow and Felton.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 15.—A flattering reception was given Congressmen W W Morrow and Charles N Felton by the republicans of San Francisco to-night, in compliment for their work in congress. A procession of the leading republican clubs of the city, comprising about 4000 men, all being in uniform, marched through the principal streets to the Mechanics' pavilion, where speeches which called forth enthusiastic applause were made by Morrow, Felton and Timothy Guy Phelps.

A REMARKABLE WELCOME

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 15.—Congressmen Morrow and Felton may well feel proud of the reception tendered them on their return from their congressional labors at Washington, and if numbers and enthusiasm mean anything, Mr Morrow probably feels assured that his efforts in the past have been appreciated and that the appreciation will be shown by a rousing vote to return him to his seat in congress.

The parade itself to-night had all the main features of the big demonstration of three weeks ago. Every republican club in line was in uniform. All along the line of march the sidewalks were packed and windows were filled with eager faces. Gentlemen in carriages were constantly kept doffing their hats and bowing in answer to the cheers that greeted them on every hand. The procession was a brilliant one, consisting of over 4000 persons, and was an hour in passing from the Palace hotel to the pavilion.

CHINESE WILL NOT RETURN

They are Going to British Columbia and Try to Cross the Border

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—Deputy Sheriff Fogarty, in a letter to Surveyor of Customs Tinnin, states that while on board the British steamer Duke of Westminster yesterday, prior to her departure for Vancouver, B C, he found that receipts and tags for identification were being issued by local agents of the Canadian Pacific company to certain of the Chinese who arrived here on the vessel but were denied landing under the exclusion act. Further inquiry led to the disclosure that fifty-two of such Chinese passengers were to be landed at Vancouver, their respective companies having sent $50 to each, or $2600 in all, to pay the head tax exacted by the British Columbia authorities to entitle them to land. The master of the vessel informed him that the Chinese would be landed at Vancouver in pursuance of this arrangement.

Deputy Surveyor Fogarty expresses himself satisfied that these Chinese intend to enter the United States by surreptitiously crossing the border, thus evading the operations of the exclusion act, and suggests that steps be taken to prevent them from so doing.

Collector Hager stated this afternoon that he had wired the collector of customs at Port Townsend and other ports at which the Duke of Westminster may touch, and thinks by this means he may prevent any attempt on the part of the Chinese to evade the customs authorities.

The collector has issued an order that no Chinaman other than a laborer shall be allowed landing, except upon certificate issued by the Chinese government under the provisions of the restriction act of 1882.

Personal and General Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Jacob Kamm, capitalist of Portland, is in the city.

Three writs were issued this afternoon for coolies on the Canadian steamer Duke of Westminster. "Citizenship" was claimed. They were not served.

It is stated that Thomas B. Reed of Maine, one of the ablest of congressional debaters on tariff questions, will come to California and speak during the campaign. Reed represents York and Cumberland counties of Maine in the national house of representatives.

The United States dispatch boat Dolphin has been ordered to Peru to reinforce the South Pacific squadron. The Dolphin will probably be made the flagship of the squadron. The Vandalia will undergo a thorough overhauling at the Mare island navy yard here and will probably relieve the Omaha when her repairs are finished, the Omaha being the flag ship of the North Pacific squadron now at Honolulu.

The future of the transcontinental association is admitted by railroad men to be very doubtful. The experiment of maintaining an organization of that kind under existing laws and of trying to make tariffs satisfactory to the railroads, the public and the interstate commission has been a very uncertain one.

Judge Denny's Bold Stand

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—Editorially the Chronicle says to-day: "In 1886 Li Hung Chang, viceroy of China, recommended Judge O N Denny, an American who had held a consulate in China, to the king of Corea as his confidential adviser, and the appointment was conferred on him. With the usual Oriental notions of personal relationship, Li Hung Chang thought because he had secured this position for Judge Denny he would find in him a pliant tool and ready instrument for carrying out the designs of China in Corea, but he did not know the stuff of which Americans are made. Judge Denny accepted the appointment in good faith, advised the Corean monarch of his rights and duties, and succeeded in bringing order out of chaos in Corea and in putting matters upon a much better footing than before. What the outcome of the bold stand taken by this American will be it is not possible to say, but it is intimated that Corea will appeal to the other nations of the world to support her against the pretensions of China."

San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—At a meeting of the chamber of commerce this afternoon resolutions were adopted urgently requesting the California delegation in congress to secure if possible the passage of the Whitthorne naval reserve bill during the present congress and calling on the chamber of commerce of Los Angeles, the board of trade of Portland, Or, and other commercial organizations of the Pacific coast to assist in pressing this matter.

Resolutions were also adopted which will be forwarded to the California representatives at Washington and to the board of trade of Portland, Or, petitioning congress for a reconnoissance of the survey of the Alaskan Coast in the interest of navigation, and the publication of surveys already made in Alaska under the surveillance of Lieut. Stoney, U S N.

Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—The Thirty-fourth annual session of the Grand Encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows began here this morning. Grand Patriarch A R Lord presided. One hundred delegates from various lodges of Odd Fellows throughout the state were present.

The reports of the grand officers for the past year indicate that the lodge is in a prosperous condition. According to the report of Grand Scribe Lyon the number of encampments in the state is seventy-eight, with a total membership at the last semi-annual term of 5000. Five new encampments were instituted during the year. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in part as follows: John A Nace of Santa Clara, grand patriarch; S B Smith, Sacramento, grand high priest; Walter B Lyon, re-elected grand scribe.

Training for a Prize Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—Mike Conly, the Ithaca giant, is actively in training at his quarters in Alameda for his fight with Joe McAuliffe, and he will not come to the city until the forenoon of the 26th. He is in splendid condition, and his training is thorough. At 6 A M he rises and practices with dumbbells for half an hour. Then he walks a mile, and at 7 he breakfasts. At 8:45 he starts on a ten mile jaunt, running the last mile. This done he plunges into the bay and gets a rub, and at noon he dines. At 1:45 he spars with Farnett, his trainer, then he sprints a little, and ends by punching a bag for twelve rounds. Then follow a plunge into the bay and supper at 6 o'clock. After that he rests an hour and then walks a little before retiring at 9:15 P M.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—The largest pile driver in the city is now being used at Mission and East streets, driving piles for the foundation of new buildings to be erected there in place of those destroyed by fire recently. This gigantic apparatus is eighty feet high, built of single timbers, and constructed especially for the occasion.

Deacon Jones, a colored pugilist, has been sent to the house of correction for thirty days for shooting John O'Conner in the arm with a toy pistol.

It is learned that the schooner Eclipse arrived at Humboldt yesterday from this port. During the passage up she encountered heavy weather, during which one man had both his legs broken, two other men were injured and the wheel and deck house were carried away.

The Drop in Sugars.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—The prices of refined sugar in this market had an upward tendency a few weeks ago, culminating the 19th of September, when crushed sold at 8⅝c, the highest in some time. This price was maintained until October 8, when the market became soft and ⅛c was marked off all round by the California refinery people. Since then the market has exhibited a downward tendency. The three representative grades have been changed by the California refinery during the last eight days as follows: September 19, crushed 8⅝c, dry granulated 8¼c, Golden C 7c. October 16, crushed 7⅜c, dry granulated 7⅛c, Golden C 5⅝c.

Killed a Man With a Knife

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 16.—Last night at Boulder, Chas Cooper, a woodsman, came into town and became filled with liquor. He met Paul Burke in a restaurant with three women. When Cooper began making remarks to the women the restaurant keeper told Burke to put Cooper out. He then attempted to do so, but Cooper drew a knife and stabbed him in the groin, inflicting a wound from which he died this morning. Cooper ran away, but was afterward arrested. He claims he thought he was about to be robbed, and he had to defend himself. He has a family in Los Angeles.

The Schooner Una Burned

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—A few days since THE OREGONIAN was sent a telegram that the Gardiner Mill Company's property at Umpqua river had burned to the ground. It is now learned that at the time of the fire the schooner Una of this port was lying at the company's dock and was burned to the water's edge. The Una was a three-masted schooner of 107 tons net burden and was built at Port Blakely, W. T., in 1874. J Knowland of this port was her managing owner, and as far as can now be ascertained she carried no insurance.

The Paris Exposition

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16.—The state board of trade held a largely attended meeting this afternoon for the purpose of considering the matter of having California properly represented at the coming Paris exposition. Numerous reports and suggestions from different members of affiliating boards were heard regarding the best manner in which to make the state display a success. A committee of five was appointed to confer with the commission and get information upon the matter, and report at the next meeting.

Drowned in the Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Musician James W Grange, Battery A, First United States artillery, was accidentally drowned this afternoon by the upsetting of a sailboat in the bay. He was twenty-one years old. Musicians Muller and Johnson and private Burns of battery B, were also in the boat, but the former was picked up, while the other two swam ashore, a distance of 300 yards.

The Boca Saloons Closed.

TRUCKEE, Oct 16.—The town of Boca is a strictly temperance town from to-day, orders having been issued by the Boca Mill Company that no more liquor be sold on their lands. The company owns all the lands north of the Truckee river, and therefore every saloon was closed to-day.

THE FAMOUS SURPLUS

An Official Statement Regarding Its Dimensions.

MAGNIFIED AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE

For the Current Fiscal Year It is Estimated at $104,000,000—The New York Sun [illegible] the Other Hand Figures a Deficit

WASHINGTON, Oct 17.—Acting Secretary Thompson of the treasury, in replying this afternoon in regard to the probable condition of the treasury at the end of the present fiscal year, said:

"The appropriation bills having all been passed by the present congress, some estimate can now be made of the probable surplus of revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, over expenditures for the same year. Estimating one or two minor items, the amount to be expended in the aggregate is $406,000,000, with estimated expenditures from permanent annual appropriations, which are put at $15,640,398, making a total of $421,640,398. The total estimated revenues are $440,500,000, making an excess of revenue over the total of appropriation of about $19,000,000.

"But this by no means represents the actual surplus of revenue for the current fiscal year. A careful estimate shows that of these appropriations, which are specific and continuing appropriations, there will be at least $37,000,000 which will not and cannot be properly expended during this fiscal year, which makes an actual surplus of $56,000,000, which is substantially the same amount estimated by the secretary in his annual report.

"But even this does not fairly represent the surplus revenues for the fiscal year 1889. For in the appropriations above stated there is included the sum of about $18,000,000 for deficiencies in the appropriations for 1888 and prior years, which should have been appropriated for at the prior session of congress and paid out of the surplus revenues of former years. This added to the above sum of $56,000,000 increases the revenues of 1888 to $74,000,000.

"This does not include the balance which will be covered into the treasury on the 30th of June, 1889, of the unexpended appropriations of 1887 and prior years, which, according to careful estimates made, will be not less than $6,000,000. In the expenditures there is included nearly $48,000,000 for the sinking fund, which is really part of the surplus revenues, and if added will make a total of $122,000,000 of revenue in excess of the actual and necessary expenditures of the government for the fiscal year 1889, which would make an actual increase of surplus at the end of this year of $104,000,000."

A LOW ESTIMATE

"The estimate of unexpended balance at the close of this fiscal year given above is extremely low compared with the actual balances which have remained unexpended in prior years. For instance, June 30, 1888, the unexpended balance of appropriation for the year was $75,514,000; on the 30th of June, 1887, $84,371,805. For the fiscal year which ended on that day and for each of the years 1886 and 1885 it was over $53,000,000.

"The above statement has reference to the excess of revenues for the present fiscal year over expenditures for the same time, and is entirely independent of the surplus now in the treasury, amounting to $97,951,3[illegible], including $21,447,548 of fractional coin. Any portion of the present surplus not expended within this fiscal year for purchase of bonds must be added to the $104,000,000 to arrive at the actual surplus which will remain in the treasury on the 30th of June next.

"With respect to the probable revenues for the fiscal year 1889, the books of the treasury show that during the present fiscal year, up to and including October 16, total receipts have aggregated $114,086,566, as against $115,868,473 for the same period last year. The falling off is only $781,707, which may be more than made up by increased receipts during the remainder of the year, which decrease is not more than is usual during the few months immediately preceding a presidential election. There is, therefore, no reason to believe that the actual receipts for the fiscal year 1889 will fall below the estimated receipts. In view of the increased activity in all branches of business, it is believed that they will fully equal if not exceed the estimate."

THE "SUN" FINDS A DEFICIT

NEW YORK, Oct 16.—In its leading editorial to-day the Sun says: "With an estimated postal revenue of $[illegible]7,500,000 and an aggregate income that will amount to but $418,500,000, we have appropriation bills for the year already signed by Cleveland or in his hands for approval amounting to $422,000,000. This means an actual deficit of three or four million dollars instead of any surplus however small. That is the condition which confronts us."

A SIX-YEAR-OLD HOMICIDE.

He Plays Cow Boy and Fatally Shoots His Mother and an Infant.

READING, Pa, Oct 16.—At the house of William Morgan, in Donaldson, Schuylkill county, Sunday night, Mrs Morgan was sitting in a rocking chair nursing a six months old child. Her six year old son, named Willie, took an old shot gun from a closet, cocked the gun, aimed it at his mother, and when about fifteen feet away cried out: "Look out, mamma, I'm a cowboy and I'm going to shoot!" He fired, and the charge entered the face, head and chest of the mother and the back and head of the infant. The mother fell unconscious. Both the mother and child are not expected to recover.

TEMPERANCE CRUSADERS ARRESTED.

Women Pillage the Saloons and Spill the Liquors Upon the Ground

GRAND FORKS, Dak, Oct 16.—About a dozen women were brought here under arrest from Thompson to-day. All attempts to close the saloons there having failed, the ladies took a hand themselves, gutting the saloons and spilling the liquor on the ground, for which they were arrested. All wear white badges, and spent the time on the train singing temperance songs. Great interest is taken in the trial. There is much bitter feeling.

Mrs J G Blaine, Jr, Denies the Report That She Has Separated From Her Husband.

NEW YORK, Oct 16.—Mrs James G Blaine Jr desires the associated press to state in her behalf that there is no existing cause for the telegraphed statements that she has separated from her husband. Mrs Blaine authorizes a positive denial of the statement that she has begun suit for a separation or that any such suit is in contemplation.

A HEAVY FAILURE

Sensational Developments Promised in the Pittsburg Bank Failure

PITTSBURG, Oct 16.—The most sensational phase of the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank suspension is very likely to crystalize soon. At least one person's arrest will be caused for the misappropriation of the bank's funds. Nobody doubts a large amount of money to be unaccounted for, probably $215,000, possibly more.

Death of "Long John" Wentworth, One of Chicago's Most Prominent Citizens

CHICAGO, Oct 16.—Hon John Wentworth, better known as "Long John," died this morning. Mr Wentworth was one of Chicago's oldest citizens. He was once mayor of the city, congressman and editor of the principal daily papers here. He was a man of giant frame and nearly seven feet in height.

The Wrecked Traders' Bank

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The receiver of the Traders' bank made a partial report to the court this morning. The assets are shown to be $901,630, liabilities $896,888. This is exclusive of $636,000 bills receivable and $45,000 checks which bear the endorsement of the bank, and which should go into its liabilities. Rutter's indebtedness to the bank is $153,303. Among the assets is a note for $15,000 made by Cashier Tallman, and an overdraft for $18,000 in the name of a man acting as agent for an unknown principal. A number of strange discrepancies are found in the accounts.

Work of a Desperado.

SOCORRO, N. M., Oct 16.—Last night Fredrick Heron, a desperado, and Saladine Chavez, a Mexican, became involved in a quarrel at Carthage. Heron drew a knife and stabbed Chavez in the neck, completely severing the jugular vein, death resulting in a few moments. Heron, after completing his terrible work, attempted to make his escape, but was overtaken by friends of the murdered man and beaten until he sustained fatal injuries. More trouble is expected. Heron was wanted at Flagstaff, Ariz, to answer a charge of murder.

O'Connor Challenges Teemer

NEW YORK, Oct 16.—Oarsman William O'Connor to-night issued the following challenge to John Teemer, the latter claiming to be American champion: "I, William O'Connor, hereby challenge John Teemer to row three miles with a turn, on or about March 1, at San Francisco, for $1000 or $2000." This is O'Connor's fourth challenge to Teemer. O'Connor said to-night: "This is the last time I will challenge Teemer. If he means business I will send my money to San Francisco inside of twenty-four hours, but I think he does not."

Cutting Down Expenses

TOPEKA, Kan, Oct 16.—Orders have been given by General Superintendent Sands of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe to all superintendents in the mechanical department along the entire system to reduce the working hours 10 per cent, making five days in a week instead of six. The order affects 10,000 men. This is usually done during the winter, but it is done earlier than usual this year for the reason that the road has been unprofitably operated. The reduction amounts to about $[illegible]0,000 per week.

The K of L Conference

PHILADELPHIA, Oct 16.—The general executive board of the K of L continued in session to-day. The resignation of T H Barry was taken up and discussed, but no action will be reached upon it before to-morrow. Barry was suspended from the order by the board last August, for conduct prejudicial to the good interests of the order, and his resignation followed. The resignation of A A Carlton from the board will also be acted on to-morrow or Thursday.

The Carlisle Indian School

CARLISLE, Pa, Oct 16.—The ninth annual report of the government Indian training school in this city, Capt R H Pratt, manager, was filed to-day and forwarded to the Indian commissioner at Washington. It shows that there are 63[illegible] Indian boys and girls at school, and Apache Indians constitute the largest element of any one tribe.

THE SITUATION IN INDIANA.

Reports From All Over the State Read in Gen Harrison's Presence.

Indianapolis Special (Oct. 4.) to Chicago Tribune.

Gen. Harrison attended the meeting of the republican state central committee to-day. The plan of campaign in each of the thirteen Congressional districts was described and the reports of progress were made in the general's presence. It was shown that of the 6000 greenbackers who held to their party four years ago none now remain. They have no ticket and will make no effort to poll a vote. As many as 100 of these people have returned to the republican party in a single county. They express their satisfaction with the republican position. In their opinion the democratic adherence to free trade will result in a severe contraction of the currency, to the serious detriment of the debtor class. The reports presented to-day also showed great gains from the old soldiers and the prohibition elements. It is now a well established fact that the prohibition principle has lost adherents steadily since the republican state convention. Carefully made estimates give the republicans 6000 of the 9000 prohibition votes cast two years ago. An equally gratifying condition is to be found among the old soldiers. President Cleveland's vetoes have hurt him in this state. The veterans say it is the tone of the vaunted messages that they object to rather than anything else connected with them. Gen Harrison expressed his complete satisfaction. The indications are that the republican plurality may reach 16,000. The gain of one or two congressmen is also assured.

The Free Whisky Mills Bill

Philadelphia American.

The clause of the Mills bill which would lighten the burden of internal taxation on beer and whisky is as follows:

"Sec. 40. That all clauses of section 3244 of the revised statutes and all laws amendatory thereof, and all other laws which impose any special taxes upon manufacturers of stills, retail dealers in liquors and retail dealers in malt liquors are hereby repealed."

This clause is omitted from the copies of the bill published by the national democratic committee, by the New York Evening Post and by the Philadelphia Times. The latter has mutilated its edition of the bill still further by omitting—

"Sec. 29. That whenever in any statute denouncing any violation of the internal revenue law as a felony, crime or misdemeanor, there is prescribed in such statute a minimum punishment less than which, maximum, no fine, penalty or imprisonment is authorized to be imposed, every such minimum punishment is hereby abolished, and the court or judge in every such case shall have discretion to impose any fine, penalty, imprisonment or punishment not exceeding the limit authorized by such statute, whether such fine, penalty, imprisonment, or punishment be less or greater than the said minimum so prescribed."

This clause leaves it to the discretion of the judge to punish illicit distillers, traders without a license and the like, by a merely nominal fine. Both clauses are directly in the interest of the liquor traffic and its worst representatives. Both would reduce the revenue the country now derives from taxes on that traffic. In some districts and under some judges the revenue might disappear altogether, but there would be no reduction of the salaried officials we maintain to collect it. Both are the work of the party which is horrified at the suggestion of a repeal of the tax.

The Situation in Mills's District

Special to St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Roger Q Mills is now at home, and he finds a condition of affairs prevailing that he never dreamed of while at Washington. Though he has for two months past been warned that matters were wrong in the Ninth district, he anticipated no danger. His friends are anxious for him to cancel all engagements in the North, and make a rigid canvass of his district, and it is understood that he has taken this course under advisement. The chances for Mills suffering the fate of Morrison seem to grow every day. The yoke is being thrown off daily by life-long democrats. Hundreds who will continue with the democratic party will refuse to vote for Mills. The Jones men are claiming the district by 2000 majority, while the Mills men claim it by only 1800. The district is now fairly in doubt and will constitute the battleground of the democracy of Texas. Among those who will aid the free-trader are A. W. Terrell of Austin, Seth Shepard of Dallas, Gov. Ross, and ex-Gov. Throckmorton. The anti-Mills party will have no outside celebrities engaged. Col. Jones himself will make a canvass of the district.

He asked urgency for the resolution, which the chamber refused.

GERMAN PRESS COMMENT.

BERLIN, Oct 16.—German newspapers speak distrustingly of the situation in France. The North German Gazette, quoting the Temps' ironical comments on Premier Floquet's revision bill, indorses the prediction of the Temps that an empire is on hand. The Tageblatt thinks something unexpected will happen in France, and that the doom of the moderate republican party was sealed on Monday.

Remarkable Cure of Blindness.

Hillsboro Independent.

Charles Brugger, living a few miles east of Hillsboro, has nearly recovered from blindness induced by measles, under the successful treatment of Drs Darrin, of Portland. Under the advice of Dr Linklater, Charles says he went to a prominent oculist in Portland for treatment, but that gentleman told him he would have to go and remain at the hospital if he treated him. Further, he did not think his left eye could be cured. The boy then consulted the Drs Darrin and they agreed to treat him outside the hospital, he coming to their office a few times each week. The treatment has been a success. From nearly total blindness, he has almost recovered his former power of vision, and called at this office one day this week asking that the marvelous cure be made public. The sight of the right eye is fully recovered, and the left eye gives no pain and is being rapidly cured. This remarkable cure indicates that the Drs Darrin are eminent oculists and are entitled to a high seat in the medical profession of this state.

Open Letter from Ex Mayor Hill.

ALBINA, Or, Oct. 4, 1888.

To whom it may concern: This is to certify that our little son Claud, who is now 4 years old, was afflicted with discharging or running sore ears at the age of 5 months old, caused by severe cold, and continued to grow worse until the odor from it was so bad at times it was almost unbearable. He also had severe ear ache at times. About the first of April this year we took him to Drs Darrin, 235 Fifth street, Portland, who commenced treating him, and in three months his ears had quit running, and to-day they are sound and well, and he hears as good as can be. The cure is perfectly satisfactory in every particular, and we can cheerfully recommend the doctors and their treatment to those similarly afflicted.

MR & MRS C H & M: A. HILL.

Sunday Star

One of the quickest cures ever performed by the Drs. Darrin took place on Sunday last. On Friday there arrived in the city from Clackamas county a miner by the name of E Stalnaker. His left knee was swollen so that it filled the leg of his pantaloons tightly. He called on the doctors on Saturday and took one of their electro-magnetic treatments, which, with a liniment rubbed on, so reduced the swelling that the knee was reduced down to its normal condition in twenty four hours. Mr Stalnaker was cured and very grateful to the doctors for curing him. The swelling was caused by exposure and injury in the mountains, and would have resulted in the loss of the leg if a cure had not been effected in time. Mr Stalnaker is a man [illegible] without means [illegible] to the credit [illegible] Darrin be it said they treated him free of charge and gave him five dollars worth of medicines beside. This case is certainly the most remarkable for being a quick cure the Northwest has ever had in its boundaries. Mr Stalnaker now resides in East Portland, P O box No 368.

Deafness Cured in Twenty Minutes.

Northwest

As a reporter of the Northwest was coming down First street just after lunch on Tuesday last, and as he came in front of Meier & Frank's mammoth store, he saw an old gentleman enter whom he thought he knew and whom he wished to see on business, so the reporter followed him in. When he came up to him it proved to be not the person sought, but an old German by the name of Geo H Papenberg, about 55 years of age, who lives at Tualatin postoffice, Washington county, and who is well known. Entering into conversation the old gentleman made the following remarkable statement: "I was deaf in my right ear for ten years and in my left one for about a year and a half. I was so deaf that people had to holler loud to make me hear. Dr Darrin gave me one treatment of about twenty minutes, and I can now hear as well as ever. There is no mistake about my hearing now, and I am well satisfied."

Had to be Led to the Doctor's Office.

Daily News.

Mr and Mrs W H Austin are stopping at the International hotel, this city. There is nothing remarkable in that, but what is most wonderful is the fact that she had been blind from an eye affliction of nine months' standing, so bad that she had to be led to the doctor's office. Her good genius prompted her to visit Dr Darrin, and after a three months' course of office and home treatment she now rejoices in a permanent cure. Mrs. Austin is well known in East Portland, and her husband is in the employ of the O R & N Co.

Deafness Cured After Thirty-six Years.

Mr Editor—My Dear Sir: I wish you to state in your paper that Dr Darrin, of 235 Fifth street, Portland, has successfully treated my right ear for almost total deafness of thirty six years' standing. Too much cannot be said for his new cure for deafness by electricity. I will answer any inquiries at Jacksonville, Or. My age is 72.

WM KOHLER.

Office Hours and Place of Business.

Drs Darrin can be consulted free at 235 Fifth street, corner of Main, Portland, and Stine house, Walla Walla, W T, 10 to 4 daily, evenings, 7 to 8. Sundays, 10 to 12. All curable chronic diseases, loss of manhood, blood taints, syphilis, gleet, gonorrhoea, stricture, spermatorrhoea, seminal weakness or loss of desire of sexual power in man or woman, catarrh and deafness, etc., confidentially and successfully treated. Cures of private diseases guaranteed and never published in the papers. Circulars sent free. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctors' office. YAQUINA BAY'S PROSPECTS

New Steamers Soon to be Put on the Route—Building of the Jetty

C H Haswell Jr general freight and passenger agent of the Oregon Development Company with headquarters in San Francisco has been in the city for a day or two on business connected with his company [illegible] the Albany Herald

[illegible] line of steamers [illegible] continue [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the north beach [illegible] greatly increase the benefits of the work [illegible] the channel and still further deepen [illegible] the point from Newport [illegible] shown in the accompanying [illegible] which is taken from the north [illegible] and how the steamer entering the harbor [illegible] the company without the expense of any towage although the company has two good tugs at the bay

Yaquina harbor has become one of the important shipping ports of the coast and when viewed in the light of the increased amount to be expended in its improvement during the next year it is not [illegible] that the volume of business which will be done through Albany and over the route will be a steadily increasing quantity

FOUR NEW LIFE SAVING STATIONS

President Cleveland Signs the Bill Which Will Improve the Northwestern Service

Yesterday's OREGONIAN contained a Washington dispatch stating that President Cleveland had approved the act establishing life saving stations in Oregon and Washington as follows At the entrance to Yaquina bay mouth of the Umpqua river Oregon one near Loomis's place on the Heats Washington territory one at the entrance to Grays harbor Washington territory

These stations are included in the omnibus bill which passed the senate two or three months ago and has been pending in the house for quite a period

[illegible] was made by the last congress for three new stations one to be located on the Kindred property near Fort Stevens Oregon at the mouth of the Columbia river another at Point Reyes Cal and the third on the [illegible] San Francisco harbor [illegible] of where the steamer City of Chester was sunk by the steamship Oceanic [illegible] When these stations are built the service on the [illegible] coast will be greatly improved and though they will [illegible] all requirements they will help along considerably

It is also proposed to remove the station at Neah bay W T from the [illegible] most desirable location making it a first [illegible] fully manned station [illegible]

Oregon and Washington now have four [illegible] at Neah bay and Cape Arago [illegible] two latter are [illegible] will have nine men

A TACOMA MISSTATEMENT

The Waterway Convention Was Not Opposed to the Improvement of the Upper Columbia

J I Nixon returned yesterday from attending the waterway convention at Portland which convened at that city Tuesday, says the Tacoma News Mr Nixon's purpose was to endeavor to secure for the Upper Columbia a portion of the $500 000 government appropriation for the improvement of the Columbia river He found the convention was not in sympathy with the improvement of the upper Columbia but wanted the whole hog for that port or [illegible] posed to be tributary to Portland The scheme to put in locks below The Dalles at a probable cost of half a million dollars and for the government to establish a free [illegible] port [illegible] The Dalles to be maintained and operated by the government free of expense to the transportation companies

Mr Nixon was not a member of the convention and no person of that name from Tacoma or elsewhere presented credentials entitling him to a seat and vote in the meeting If he inspired the item in the News he made a [illegible] statement If he listened to the proceedings or even referred to the report of the doings published in THE OREGONIAN he would easily have found out that the convention far from being out of sympathy with the improvement of the upper Columbia [illegible] favored it and in the memorial to congress urged the making of appropriations for the improvement of [illegible] Celilo rapids and [illegible] called for money for the completion of the Cascade locks

These things Mr Nixon would have learned [illegible] interested in the opening of the Upper Columbia to navigation were proper [illegible] to accuse Portland of hogging it all

BIDS FOR FILLING COUCH LAKE

They Will be Opened To-Day and the Contract Probably Awarded

Five bids were handed in yesterday for the work of filling Couch lake They will be opened to-day and if the lowest bid is satisfactory the contract will be awarded but the company has reserved the right to reject [illegible]

The [illegible] Company has plenty of earth in the bank at Albina and as they [illegible] engines and do not own the bridge across the river they prefer to let the work The contractor will have to pay the toll across the bridge and the wages of [illegible] to figure up [illegible]

[illegible] with the [illegible] contractors [illegible] to agree to do the work at less than a dollar [illegible] At this rate the filling of the lake would be a rather expensive job and it is quite probable that when the bids are opened they will be found to name a less [illegible] that the price will be such as will justify the company in letting the contract [illegible] be a fine thing to have the so called [illegible] filled up

THEY HAVE BOTH SKIPPED

Smith Gave Leg Bail and Burbanks Sawed Out and Took "French Leave"

Smith and Burbanks the two tramps who were arrested a day or two since in East Portland while disposing of silverware supposed to have been stolen from a trunk stored in the Union Storage Company's warehouse, and who were committed to the county jail, are again at liberty without permission of the authorities and are free to wander at will through the mud and rain and steal whatever they can lay their hands on The one who gave the name of James Smith came to the front when prisoners were called to work on the streets, and, answering to the name of O Brien, went out to work and took the opportunity to skip

The other one Burbanks was taken over to East Portland yesterday morning for examination before the recorder He waived his examination and was remanded to the city jail where he was to remain until he was taken to the county jail

He was left alone only about an hour but that was long enough for him to file a bar of iron from the window and make good his escape It is supposed that a confederate slipped a small file into his hands as he was passing from the recorder's office to the jail It seems incredible that he should have been able to force his body through the bars even after he had sawed out one of them the space being very small The officers made immediate and diligent search for the man but no trace of him was found

Mr John [illegible] who [illegible] these fellows [illegible] feels kind of lonesome now

UNFOUNDED STORIES

A Statement Made in Simple Justice to Ex Postmaster Geo E Cole Formerly of Portland

George E Cole formerly postmaster of Portland in which position he served two terms is now a resident of Cheney W T and is a candidate on the republican ticket for treasurer of Spokane county The people may be assured that if elected, he will discharge the duties faithfully

It has been reported in Spokane county as we hear that his administration of the Portland postoffice was not satisfactory and that in fact there was a defalcation in the postoffice while he was postmaster

These stories are wholly unfounded Mr Cole discharged the duties [illegible] in a way satisfactory both to the people and the postal authorities

Opening the River

[illegible]

[illegible] opening of the Columbia river to free navigation and even Portland which has for several years [illegible] the completion of the [illegible] long delayed work will be soon finished The faith [illegible] with our congressional representation but in the manner in which the work has been prosecuted Everyone knows that the river and harbor bill is the most difficult measure to pass Both house [illegible] with the [illegible] opposition from portions of the country which desire no government aid [illegible] appropriation for improvements which are entirely impracticable On this account frequently the meritorious work [illegible] under the same censure as those possessing no merit [illegible] representatives in congress [illegible] liberal appropriations in the river and harbor bill and fight it most bitterly The Pacific states have always [illegible] in harmony with the large [illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] record in this regard During the last few years our representatives have worked [illegible] for appropriations for the improvement of our rivers Both Senators Dolph and Mitchell have [illegible] increased the amount for Oregon after the bill came from the house and during the present session it was Senator Dolph's individual efforts which increased the amount for the lock from $150 000 to $400 000 We challenge any person to point to a single instance where an Oregon representative has ever been derelict in his duty to his constituents in the matter of appropriation and to lay the blame of the delay of the work to our representative in Washington city is the grossest injustice and ingratitude

RAINY, BUT A GOOD CROWD.

The Mechanics' Fair Still an Object of Public Attention

New Exhibits and More Coming In—A Fine Display of Coal From Columbia County—Splendid Music

Notwithstanding the spurt of rain that set in at about 6 30 last night the attendance at the Mechanics' fair was very good The streets were rather muddy but that did not stop a good many from wending their way to the pavilion to there see the many attractions and listen to the excellent music discoursed by the band The attendance thus far [illegible] much larger than it was up to [illegible] period of the fair last [illegible]

[illegible]

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

[illegible] MACHINERY COMPANY

With the general public and especially that part of it directly interested in machinery it has been a matter of regret that the Parke & Lacy Machinery Company did not make an exhibit at the Mechanics' fair this year It is fair to assume that if they had done so theirs would have been the most interesting display in the pavilion Especially would this have been true as regards the attraction it would have had for those of a practical turn of mind and every one at all interested in the material and industrial development of this Northwest country

In their [illegible] is embraced such a wide range of [illegible] such an extensive [illegible] implements and devices [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] engines

A [illegible] INDUSTRY

Among the prosperous industries of Portland is the A[illegible] Manufacturing Company whose factory is located at No 106 F street between Fifth and Sixth The building is [illegible] feet and three stories high with a basement The basement is used for [illegible] and storage purposes the first floor as a packing and salesroom and the other two floors for manufacturing

It is the only [illegible] candy factory in the Northwest and when run at full capacity can make [illegible] pounds of candy a month from the finest grade of wholesome French mix [illegible] In addition the company keeps a supply of show cases scales glass jars and all kinds of implements and tools for confectioners [illegible] popcorn, and everything required in the manufacture of goodies

The enterprise was inaugurated in 1864 by C A Alisky who continued in charge of it for nearly a quarter of a century increasing his plant and output as the country developed and the demand for candy grew In July last Louis Saroni & Co of San Francisco who had been conducting a wholesale candy business at No 8 North Front street bought out Mr Alisky's entire plant but the business is continued under the old title of Alisky Candy Manufacturing Company by which it is favorably known all over the Northwest The company also holds the agency for [illegible] Saroni & Co of San Francisco and have the largest confectionery factory west of Chicago and the only one on the coast using steam pans

To an OREGONIAN reporter who visited the factory yesterday [illegible] scene presented itself Teams were backed up to the curb awaiting a load the first floor was strewn with barrels of sugar and goods ready for shipment the machinery buzzing while the fifty employes were kept constantly on the go some making sweet morsels some packing the candy for shipment while others were busy attending to other details

The demand for candy increases every day said Mr Ezra D Baker president and manager of the company We have a large business in Oregon Washington Idaho and Montana, and keep three traveling men on the road all the time The old theory about the adulteration of candy has been exploded, and sugar is now too cheap to take any chances in employing adulterations I don't believe that one confectioner in a hundred uses them now, though undoubtedly they had been used at times. As for colors, the Confectioners' Association makes the use of mineral colors a penitentiary offense only vegetable colors being allowed and thus the public is protected

FRANK BROTHERS IMPLEMENT COMPANY

The Frank Brothers Implement Company make a display that attracts the attention of all visitors to the pavilion They are the leading firm dealing in farm machinery, farm implements and all agricultural tools and display a variety in this line which cannot be duplicated in economical application and serviceable work on the coast

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 17.

IN WASHINGTON TERRITORY

There are issues presented in Washington territory upon which the republicans ought to win the election of next month and they certainly will win if they make the issues understood.

Washington should be a state. But the honors and advantages of statehood have been withheld from her by a democratic congress; they have been withheld solely for partisan reasons, and the people of Washington ought not to vote to sustain the party that treats them with this degree of injustice and distrust. Should the republican party succeed in the pending national contest, should it elect Gen. Harrison to the presidency and get a majority, even of one, in the house of representatives, Washington would be admitted as a state just as soon as the preliminary forms could be gone through; but if the democratic party should succeed again Washington, as well as Dakota, would continue to knock at the door in vain. On the issue of admission, therefore, the people of Washington should now pay back with interest the treatment their territory has received at the hands of the democratic party.

Washington ought also to declare herself on the tariff question. Her principal industries quite as much as those of any other territory or state and more than most are menaced by the democratic tariff scheme, and her delegate in congress ought to be a man who would give voice to the protest of the people. On this issue Allen will stand for the interests of the territory while Voorhees will stand for the partisan policy that is trying to force the Mills bill upon the country at the command of the Solid South and the free trade interests of New York.

Washington territory is a great producer of wool and will be affected as injuriously as Oregon by adoption of the democratic policy of free trade in this important staple. Even more than Oregon will she be injured by free trade in lumber, because her lumber product is much greater than ours, and her contiguity to the forests of British Columbia opens her to active competition. Besides, lumber is largely made in British Columbia by Chinese labor, and the product of the lumber mills of that region is constantly increasing. The attention of readers of THE OREGONIAN in Washington territory may properly be directed to a statement published to-day from a citizen of Portland who has just returned from the East over the Canadian Pacific railroad. He fell in with British capitalists who, induced by opportunities found in Chinese labor and in the promise of free trade in lumber with the United States, are going into the lumber business on a prodigious scale. With cheap labor and repeal of the duty of two dollars per thousand there seems to be no reason why their anticipations of great success should not be realized.

Here is a menace not only to mill property in Washington territory and to labor employed at the mills, but to owners of timber lands, large numbers of whom are hoping to realize something from the demand for their timber so that they may be able to go on with improvements, pay their debts and establish their homes. There are thousands of persons in the territory whose expectations have been built on obtainment of a market for their timber and all these are deeply affected by the present issue. Moreover, the democratic plan of tariff reduction can not stop with the present bill. Coal and iron are as much raw materials as wool and lumber, and the doctrine of free trade in raw materials will put coal and iron on the free list the same as lumber and wool. Washington territory is especially rich in coal and iron. These materials with wool and lumber are the basis of her hopes for future prosperity. But the logic of the democratic tariff scheme strikes at them all alike. If adopted it will surely retard their development. No part of the country is more vitally concerned in this issue than Washington territory.

For these reasons the people of Washington ought in the coming election to declare for the party that upholds their interests and against the party that threatens them. Of course the democrats of the territory will attempt to answer by saying that they are quite as much concerned in the welfare of the territory as their republican neighbors and would be as far from doing anything against the public interest. But this is not an answer, for the democratic policy is not a policy chosen by the democrats of Washington territory, but a policy forced upon them by their party managers of the South and East. If the democratic tariff policy, as now presented, were submitted to the voters of Oregon and Washington as an issue in itself and not as a party question it would not get the votes of one person in ten, either north or south of the Columbia river.

The democratic candidate for congress tries to make it appear that the main question at issue is that of the people of the territory against the Northern Pacific railroad, on the land grant. This is far-fetched, factitious and absurd. The status of the land grant will be in no wise affected, whether one man or another is sent to congress. Such rights as the Northern Pacific possess are legal rights and these will be defined and interpreted by the courts of the United States. The company will hold just such rights as the courts may decide is lawfully belonging to it and no more, and the vagaries of Voorhees and his appeal for votes will have as little to do with the result than the predilections of Judge Greene on infant baptism have to do with the condition of life on the planet Mars.

All the interests of Washington territory now and for the future are inseparably bound up with the policy of the republican party. Upon that policy the development and prosperity of Washington must depend; to the republican party lies Washington's appeal for statehood, and it is high time therefore that Washington was placing herself on the republican side. This time as never before the issues of the national campaign are local issues in Washington territory, and the people should speak precisely as they would speak were they voting for president and vice-president of the United States.

NO WAR IMPENDING

There will be no war between England and the United States growing out of the fisheries dispute with Canada. England certainly and we hope America has too much sense and humanity to go to war without a provocation that would command the respect of the decent opinion of mankind. The United States, under a republican administration, would certainly settle the Canadian dispute peacefully, but what a democratic administration would do nobody can tell, for if Cleveland and his party thought they could carry the November election by a war with England they would bellow for blood to-morrow. If England could afford to make war on the United States to-morrow she would not do it, but she cannot afford a war to-day single handed with the United States, nor could any other power in Europe. Not less than 500,000 men would be required to invade America with the faintest hope of success. England could not send half that number, and the other great powers have no interests to satisfy by a quarrel with America, and have enough to do to watch each other at home. Only by her navy could England seriously injure the United States. We have no commerce to destroy to compare with the vast English marine that would be at the mercy of our privateers. Some of our cities might be bombarded, or laid under contribution, but this would be answered by the confiscation of British property in railroads, lands, etc., within our territory. England is more dependent upon our market for the necessaries of life and manufacture than we are upon England, thanks to our protective policy that has created and preserved our home market from invasion and capture.

By a war with the United States England would not only lose Canada but all British America. By the use of our great lines of railroad we could in sixty days concentrate an army of 500,000 men on the Canadian frontier. In 1862 not less than 90,000 men were enlisted, organized, armed and equipped and sent into the field within twenty days from the five states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin. Within 100 days after a declaration of war we could have a million of men in the field. As a matter of interest England would not fight for Canada, for Canada is worth her more than she is worth, and as a matter of sentiment England could not afford to go to war to hold Canada, for she would only spend her blood and treasure in vain, since Canada is practically defenseless against the military forces that the United States could and would assemble in event of a war with England.

War with England therefore is not within the bounds of reasonable apprehension. England has nothing to make and everything to lose by war with any great power. She would not make war upon us because interest and the sure prospect of defeat forbids it, and it is a matter of pure sentiment she will not make war. Nobody would help her in Europe, for it is nobody's interest to help her, and Russia and Germany would both be delighted to see England burdened by a great war. France cannot afford to help anybody, and Germany would not suffer her to stir, but France is the hereditary ally and friend of the United States. Austria and Italy dare not stir without Germany's leave, so that England is not in a situation to make war on any great power, least of all to attack at enormous disadvantage the United States. We have been quarreling over the fisheries question ever since the last war with England in 1812-15, but though the bickering and dispute is not over the day is long past when England can afford a war with the United States. There would certainly be no money in it and small glory, for it would end in the loss of the whole of British America.

RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE

One of the strongest evidences of the growth of common sense is exhibited in the increasing fraternity among churches. Nearly every individual among the middle aged generation in this country can remember when the antagonism between the different branches of the Protestant church was of a bitterness that reached a degree of downright hatred and actually superinduced in thousands of instances positive non-intercourse among neighbors. Presbyterians believed that all other church members were not as good as outside sinners who made no pretense of belonging to any church; Episcopalians were of the opinion that other religious branches of Protestant confession were not churches at all but simply societies, while Methodists said that the Episcopal church was utterly devoid of religion. So the wordy and social warfare went on and ramified the entire Protestant world, while between Catholics, Protestants and Jews there was a great triangular gulf.

In this day of the world, however, distinguished by great discoveries in science and by general and surprising advance in every field of thought, religious tolerance and liberality have advanced also. Sectarianism exists yet, it is true, but its bitterness has been largely neutralized and there is a commendable and gratifying degree of harmony compared with the situation of even two or three decades ago. To-day christian churches co-operate together in many lines of religious work. The Young Men's Christian Association, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and many other bodies composed of people working for the general increase of good morals and religious sentiment are composed of members of all Protestant churches and are encouraged by Catholics and Jews. Besides, in many other ways Protestants, Catholics and Jews confess to much good in the religion of all and frequently join hands in the support of a common cause. In this connection it was noticeable a few days ago that at a Methodist conference in Columbus, Ohio, two Jewish rabbis, one of Ohio and another of Mississippi, attended the conference and were ceremoniously presented to that body and invited to seats among the delegates. Such a thing as this probably never occurred before in the history of religion, and when it is considered that the Jews have been for thousands of years the most exclusive of all religious sects, differing diametrically in creed—two of their priests has meeting the overtures of Christian denominations with something of mutual recognition between the two sects—the liberalism suggested is remarkable, in view of the great and long standing differences in religious belief. It is another of the numerous incidents and evidences agreeably presenting themselves nowadays of the increase of liberality and fraternity which is calculated to do far more good than wrangling and pulling at cross purposes among those who believe in one Creator and who desire to advance human morality universally.

THEY WILL NOT SELL

It was a strong thing John Finerty, the eloquent Irish orator of Chicago, uttered, when in the course of a speech in Brooklyn a few days ago he said: "I would be ashamed of a man who would sell the prosperity of his country for a pair of cheap blankets." He was referring to the continual mouthing democratic gibber that English blankets are cheaper than American made blankets, and that if the Mills bill should become a law the inhabitant of the United States could buy English blankets cheaper than they can buy blankets of American make, a proposition that is not denied but which carries on its face the fact that American blanket makers would be forced to accept the low wages of English blanket-makers in order that the American product might compete with the English product.

In good wages to American workmen lies the foundation of American prosperity, and inspired by this idea the true American will contend for the protection of our industries regardless of the industries and prosperity of other countries. That all countries should be prosperous is the natural wish of every right-hearted man, but when the question arises as between America and elsewhere the patriotic citizen exclaims, "America first, last and all the time!" The American policy is based upon self preservation, the first law of nature, upon the theory that the first duty of a government is to consider the welfare of its own people, regardless of the industrial welfare of other countries. The government of the United States was not established for the benefit of England. On the contrary it was conceived of urgent justice and born in the sore travail of war, trial and suffering, of which England was the cause. It has grown strong and independent, and Britain has never ceased to sorrow over the loss to her coffers by the refusal of America to pay her tribute. To replace her lost tribute she has sought to flood this country with her products, duty free, through the machinations of the Cobden club and similar organizations. By open eyed, true hearted, patriotic Americans the scheme will not be accepted.

Up to the 1st of October Mr. Cleveland has vetoed 416 pension bills and has issued one battle-flag order which was vetoed by the people of the North.

CLEVELAND'S JINGO POLICY

A recent Ottawa dispatch announced that Gen. Middleton had been ordered to report on the fortifying of Sanquan harbor, which is but twelve miles from American territory and is a strong strategic point on the Pacific coast and would be important in case of a war between England and the United States.

Our foreign dispatches of the 8th instant announced that an exchange of angry communication had taken place between London and Washington with regard to President Cleveland's retaliation proposals, and our dispatches of yesterday quoted the views of Secretary Whitney concerning the reported warlike prospect and our capacity to meet trouble if it came. There is not the slightest probability of a war with England or a rupture with Canada, but it is not a matter of surprise that President Cleveland's wanton jingoism has angered and disgusted both Canada and the English home government. Senator Sherman has already protested in fitting terms against the attitude of the president and his democratic fuglemen in congress as needlessly unfriendly, impolitic and unwise in asking for illimitable powers to force a foolish quarrel with Canada, which would be destructive to the valuable interstate commerce of both countries and would permanently embitter a people against us who are naturally our friends and are certain to drift into still closer political and commercial relations with us if we do not wantonly persist in our support of President Cleveland's bulldozing proposition to vex Canada from New Brunswick to British Columbia because of the unsettled fisheries dispute. The United States owes the British government no good will for the past, but that is no reason why we should treat Canada with needless and wanton injustice and harshness out of all proportion to any real or fancied provocation we claim to have received.

The jingo policy of President Cleveland is nothing but a cheap and contemptible campaign trick, an effort to make those of our citizens who do not admire England's present home government throw up their caps for Cleveland. But the president has overshot the mark, because instead of boldly proposing to retaliate upon Great Britain for any act done under her flag in contravention to the rights and privileges of the United States he asked for extravagant powers to mercilessly harrass and embitter the people of Canada, who are naturally our friends, for as their ablest statesmen admit it is the manifest destiny of Canada at some day of her own choice to become part of the United States. This day of union however can be made remote rather than near by enacting the Cleveland Jingo policy of indiscriminate retaliation. Ben Butler of Massachusetts presses this point home strongly when he says:

> Why should we do this? The inhabitants of Canada are our friends. The governing classes, agents of Great Britain, are against us. If any retaliation is to be done, cut off English commerce from our shores so that Canada, our neighbors, may be brought in closer relations to us.
>
> Why punish her people? Why treat her mercilessly? Why stop the produce of her farms from transportation? Why is it not good policy as well as good neighborhood to let her do everything that the people of Canada are desirous of having done, so that it be just and right, and do for them that which they desire to have, because they wish to be our friend.
>
> Let us leave England severely alone in a proper manner as we have a right to do, even in our treaty of amity and commerce which she does not regard. Nurse our relations with Canada and her people. Let her come to us and be with us as part of us.

As a bid for the Irish American vote the president's message fell flat, because the Irish have no quarrel with Canada. They envy Canada her home rule government, but they have no quarrel with a British colony that is inhabited by thousands of Irishmen in full sympathy with Gladstone and Parnell, as was proved by the great multitudes that listened to O'Brien. If Cleveland had erected his quills at the home government the Irish might have mistaken him for such a man as Jackson, who bearded France, but his proposition wantonly to persecute Canada excited no enthusiasm among the Irish, for with characteristic quickness they saw through the president's game. The Irish administer more blarney than they swallow, and they rated Cleveland's blustering message calling for retaliation as pure political buncombe. They knew that his minister to England, Phelps, and his secretary of state, Bayard, were both Anglomaniacs, who had negotiated an extradition treaty that is not likely to be ratified; they knew that Bayard and Chamberlain had negotiated a fisheries treaty that had been rejected, and they knew that the president had approved both of these British treaties. Hence Cleveland's sudden demand for a rod for the back of Canada did not fool the Irish, whose quarrel is not with Canada at all, but with the home government. For this reason Cleveland's retaliation message fell flat. Intelligent Canadians are not blind to the demagogic purpose of the president in this matter.

WHY TEMPERATE

A foreign correspondent writes the New York Graphic that while wine drinking and beer drinking are about as common in Europe as water drinking is at home drunkenness appears to be much less so. We quote:

> We have seen a child of two years take more beer at a single sitting than we should care for, and one morning we found ourselves upon a delightful steamboat and among school children, each of whom had a bottle of wine. They fell to eating and drinking as soon as the boat started in order to begin the holiday at once, and an hour later with steady gait the whole school walked right by our party on the way up Mount Blanc. On the Continent we have never seen anybody but an American take whisky, or much strong drink, and at table d'hote those persons who order the lightest wines and mix water with them are often the individuals who began drinking wine when they stopped drinking milk.

The ordinary explanation of this fact offered by extremists and fanatics is that it is due entirely to climate; that people who live in cold climates drink to excess as compared with those who live in mild climates. This cannot be the reason, because there is far less drinking to excess among intelligent men of decent origin and humane surroundings in England or France than there is in America, while the climate of England or France is certainly not as genial as that of the Pacific coast or that of the South below the latitude of Norfolk, Virginia. The explanation lies in the fact that in Europe while drunkenness is held to be deep social disgrace the table consumption of wine is not only not denounced as a vice but is treated as a legitimate article of diet. That is, temperance is not driven by the preaching of total abstinence and prohibition to take refuge in the ditch with intemperance. Children are not taught from the cradle that a thing is a sin that is not a sin; they are not asked to worship moral bugaboos, and the result is that a child that has been taught both by precept and example the difference between use and abuse is no more disposed to go forth and make a gross winebibber of himself than to become a glutton because he has always been given a good dinner. There is no temperance cant, no prohibition fanaticism taught among the intelligent circles in Europe, and yet intemperance is treated with no more charity. It is as certain to bury a man under a cloud of social contempt as lewdness or gluttony or uncleanliness of any sort. Intemperance is as common among barbarians under the equator as it is among the Laplanders, so it is not all a matter of climate. Of course a climate that permits the production of cheap pure wine will naturally have less intemperate people than a country like Scotland where only ardent spirits are produced, but the fact that the English clergy and thousands of irreproachable men and women in both England and America habitually take wine at dinner without ever becoming intemperate proves that the question of temperance is not solely a question of cold or mild climate, of wine producing or non-wine producing countries. Europe among its intelligent classes deals honestly with the question. It does not confuse the decent indulgence of a privilege with the abuse of it, and it never feigns that the man who manfully says "I won't drink any drinking abroad that I am ashamed to do at home" is not half as likely to have his boys grow up tipplers and [illegible] of perpendicular drinking [illegible] as if he pretended to his family like Stiggins that all liquors are vanities and yet took his portion without remorse of conscience at his club or some other spot entirely outside the family circle. It is the vast wash of moral humbuggery and hypocrisy and lying pretence and exaggeration with which we surround the question of practical temperance that excites contempt and sends so many [illegible] persons to the barroom to learn the lesson of moderation by experience who ought to have learned it at home by the example of temperance in all things and by the teaching that it is not temperance that disgraces a man, nor total abstinence that makes him truly good, but that it is intemperance that disgraces him and it is self restraint that ennobles him.

The present existence of the yellow fever as an epidemic in Florida and other places in the South has prompted A. D. [illegible] to condense for the North American Review from Hecker's "Epidemics" an account of the black death, a plague of Oriental origin which devastated Asia, Europe and Africa in the fourteenth century. Cairo lost daily 10,000 to 15,000, and in China 13,000,000 of persons are said to have perished. India was nearly depopulated, and in Asia (not including China) 23,840,000 were destroyed. In Venice 100,000 died and in London at least an equal number. English annals report that only a tenth of the inhabitants remained alive. So reduced was England that the Scotch invaded the country, but took the plague from the English and the survivors of their army spread it all over Scotland, which had hitherto escaped as lightly as had Ireland. In Germany 124,434 Franciscan friars died. In Vienna 1200 died daily. The palace and the cottage both felt the fury of this disease. Sweden, Norway, Iceland and Greenland were fearfully scourged by this pestilence, which raged with destructive violence in Europe, (with the exception of Russia, where it did not break out until 1351) from 1347 to 1351. It is estimated that Europe lost by the black death 25,000,000 of people, or a fourth of her inhabitants. The black death was contagious, while yellow fever is infectious but not contagious. It is an interesting fact that yellow fever prior to 1800 visited such remote places as Nantucket Island, where in 1763 250 persons died of it. In 1801 New York city had between July 18 and October 6,000 deaths from yellow fever.

The testimony before the council committee appointed to consider the question of regulating hacks and providing where they shall stand revealed the fact that property owners do not complain of the hacks or the horses but of the hackmen. Neither the horses nor the hacks shout to one another or use foul language. The horses are not insolent; neither do the hacks lounge in the doorway or defile the sidewalk; the horses are not obscene and the hacks are sufficiently urbane. The horses and the hacks do not constitute the nuisance; it is the hackmen. THE OREGONIAN ventures to suggest that if the owners of the hacks would take a little pains to hire men who have at least as lively a sense of public decency and propriety as the horses they drive, it would help [illegible] to abate the [illegible] complained of, and an ordinance and arrest by the police might help to convince a hoodlum hackman that he has no more right to bark at people who mind their own business than any other canine. Perhaps the dog law might be stretched so as to permit the muzzling of men who do not behave as well in public as the horses they drive.

When the war broke out Grover Cleveland was a strong young man in Buffalo, N. Y., doing very little business and unhindered by family ties. All around him young men were enthusiastically enlisting, and yet such was the need for men that there were frequent drafts, and his name was drawn among those drawn for military service. He scoured about, secured a substitute by paying $150 and promising to pay $150 more, which he never did, and the substitute died a few years ago an object of charity in a soldiers' home. By a strange eccentricity of fortune Mr. Cleveland became president of the United States, and before he had been in office as much as two years ordered one day the return to the late enemies of his country the battle flags which the loyal armies had captured and which were to the rebels whom he so loves the insignia of their defeat. A soldier who can vote for the re-election of a man with such a record has a pretty strong stomach, to say the least.

The report telegraphed from Walla Walla and published in THE OREGONIAN yesterday morning concerning an order to L. B. North of Johnson mountain to sell out and leave shows that kuklux and whitecap methods do not succeed in this portion of the country. Mr. North simply proceeded to convert his cabin into an arsenal, for which the kuklux seem to have a wholesome respect. It is evident that North has done nothing which could give the faintest warrant for the attempt at violent ostracism, and it is to be hoped that his ammunition will hold out with great efficiency if any physical attempt is made to drive him away.

A man was tried before a justice of the peace in Chicago a few days ago for forging a meal ticket. It transpired that he was an inventor who was unable to invent any other plan for obtaining something to eat, and therefore fasted for two days. The sharp point of hunger had driven him to crime and he was sent to the workhouse. If he had stolen a half million he would have been allowed to depart on his own recognizance and the judge would probably have sent him home in the judicial phaeton had the judge haply possessed one.

Frequently some democrat with a pretense of enthusiasm claims that Cleveland has a fighting chance in some rock ribbed republican state. Congressman Townshend of Illinois says Cleveland has "a fighting chance" in Illinois. The fact is that the only place where Cleveland has much of a fighting chance is in the Solid South, and it will be remembered that once before when he had "a fighting chance" down there he didn't take advantage of it but sent a substitute.

The only Chinese voter in California, Ah Tuck Lee, who is a native of the state, living in Monterey, where he was born, is a democrat and will vote for Cleveland and Thurman. As an evidence that he is knowingly a democrat and supports the party which he thinks friendliest to his race it may be remarked that he is more intelligent and better educated than the average white voter. Besides Chinese he fluently speaks English and Spanish.

The Chicago Tribune says that no less than 18,000 commercial and traveling men—"drummers"—have their homes in Chicago. Four-fifths of all of them are for Harrison, because they recognize the contest as an issue between home and foreign products. Heretofore not more than one-fifth of the "drummers" of Chicago have been able to be at home to cast their votes. But they are going to do differently this year. They have effected an organization and are arranging with their employers to be at home on election day, and will make their votes and influence tell upon the result in Chicago. It was this organization that sent the delegation of several hundred traveling men to call on Gen. Harrison.

It seems that the attempt to decide in Chicago who own the street car lines, the stockholders or their hired men, has not entirely succeeded. The dispatches yesterday morning report the mobbing of some of the new men who were kept on according to agreement by the striking element, and the end is not yet.

For as old a man as the ancient Roman he handles his bandana at a barbecue with great dramatic effect. He knows where to bring it out to get the most applause, and does it with a finesse which would be creditable to the first walking gentleman of a theatrical company.

As much labor must be expended in the production of wool as in the manufacture of wool into a blanket or a piece of flannel. The democratic tariff scheme proposes protection for labor in the first process, but not in the first. Was a more unfair proposition ever presented?

While thousands of enthusiastic voters are calling upon Gen. Harrison and exhibiting their desire for his election, Mr. Cleveland's most noticeable callers of late aside from those on official business are Buffalo Bill and Anson's baseball club.

Hon. Tom Fitch, "the silver tongued orator of California," is one of the republican speakers now illuminating the political firmament in Indiana. He is spoken of there as the most brilliant of all the stump speakers in the state.

Myron Bangs, who is so exultantly spoken of as the New York republican who gave $10,000 to the democratic campaign fund, is simply a contractor with fat government jobs and nursing his chances for more.

Fifteen carloads of raisins going East over the Northern Pacific railroad show that grapes are being raised on this coast to some purpose, and yet this is only a beginning.

The Mormons have been contributing freely to the democratic campaign fund. That hierarchy, the Church of Latter Day Saints, knows who its friends are.

AGRICULTURAL MATTERS.

Continuation of Articles on the Subject of Fruit Growing.

Peaches and Grapes—Small Fruits—Cherries for Export—Needed Legislation—The Codling Moth, Etc Etc

The peach is the great delicacy of northern orchards and should be abundantly cultivated wherever it can be grown to advantage. It has always been understood that peaches, grapes and corn are not exactly suited to this climate. The cool summer nights that insure such perfection to many other fruit do not suit the crops named, that all require abnormally warm summer weather. While this is true of much of Western Oregon and Washington there is a very extensive range of valleys and the whole of eastern Oregon west of the [illegible] where peaches can grow to good advantage. Some years ago the writer rode from Walla Walla to Lewiston and found in many of the deep valleys crossed fruit growing well suited to the latitude of northern California. Dr. Blalock had a fine orchard a few miles below Walla Walla that was irrigated from one of the streams of that section. The [illegible] next winter however all the peaches on upland were killed by the [illegible] an unusually cold winter spell. It is more than possible that irrigation kept [illegible] growing late and made them too [illegible] to such injury. The same year the [illegible] orchards at Columbus [illegible] at The Dalles [illegible] Not far from the mouth of [illegible] as well as those at Alpowa [illegible] miles below Lewiston and [illegible] river, although the [illegible] have the trees killed. It was shown at a meeting of fruit growers at The Dalles last January that along the Columbia wherever there was river bottom land under a cliff that sheltered it from the sun during the three winter months the orchards usually bore well and the trees did well. There is much such land along the Columbia as high up as [illegible]ville and on Snake river and the tributaries of those rivers well adapted to peaches and grapes. At Alpowa canyon at its junction with Snake river one can see growing peaches, nectarines and apricots, [illegible] grapes and other varieties that grow and ripen in perfection. At the Mechanics' fair there can now be seen as rich grapes as come here from California, as good and rich in flavor as grow anywhere, luscious and beautiful, that were sent down from Columbus, on the north side of the Columbia in Klickitat county, W. T. Of course there is a great deal of such land along that river and now that transportation is becoming more reliable and cheaper every acre of that land should be planted to fruit. The other day Mr C W Moore of Boise City told of peaches growing on bench lands on Boise river below that place in great perfection. It is singular when there is such a demand for these fruits that such opportunity is not improved.

Wherever peaches will do well, as a general rule grapes will also do well. Here in Western Oregon and Washington these sandy river lands, high and dry enough to be used, that almost surely bring peaches. Also favorable western and southern slopes where they do well, and there is an unlimited area of peach and grape land in southern Oregon that invites all new comers who desire to make a specialty of fruit growing.

To insure good success with peaches on upland underdrain it well and subsoil it deep and then plant trees. If you wish to laugh down the idea of this being necessary just do so with a single acre and set out another acre in the usual way. Four years will show you trees twice as large and healthy on the first acre and bearing twice as good fruit and twice as much of it. Every year will more than pay back the cost after the trees are three years old.

The standard peaches are Hale's Early and Alexander that are clingstones, Waterloo and others, while the standard varieties are the Early Crawford, Foster and Muir. There is one late peach among these, Cox's clingstone, one of the best, that originated with Joseph [illegible] on the Santiam forty years ago. You can easily read up as to peaches and your nurseryman can post you about them. Some time The Oregonian may go into a particular description of varieties but there is so much published in catalogues that it seems unnecessary to do so at present.

Grapes need to have preparation made as above stated and to be well cared for. Regular vineyardists plant them six feet apart and cut back to the original stump every season. They cultivate well between, plowing both ways and cultivating. There are no trellises or frame work, but each vine [illegible] a stump that sends forth its shoots and bears great bunches. If you have a warm south hillside, not too heavy soil, plant grapes, and if they do well plant more.

SMALL FRUITS

Small fruits may not come strictly in the list of orchard products but are a pleasing feature in horticultural work and come in to good play when richly served with sugar and cream to develop their delicious qualities. They are often made a feature of orchard work by planting rows of some small fruit between the trees. In this way more room is gained for the trees and when they become large enough to require all the space the small fruits can be removed.

It is hardly necessary to advise people what variety of vines or bushes to set out, because circumstances of soil and location will govern and any man can learn what is best in his immediate vicinity. There are some varieties that suit lowland or upland and the experience of successful berry growers is the best criterion to go by.

One important thing to do is to decide what kind you wish to plant and procure and plant them early in the fall. After this you cannot be too early in the ground. In order [illegible] from an Eastern exchange under the head of "Hints About Planting" [illegible]:

[illegible] raspberries, currants, gooseberries and grapes planted in the fall [illegible] to grow [illegible] the ground [illegible] to plant. They [illegible] more growth than those set out in spring. Great care should be taken in planting to firm the soil around the roots. They should be mulched with straw or coarse manure during winter. Some raspberries carelessly planted and not mulched were a failure, only one in five showing any life, and that one making a very sickly growth. Strawberries planted in April are doing the best. The rows are full of strong healthy plants, which look much better than some set out in May.

This is no doubt good advice as to all the others, though made for a colder Eastern climate, but strawberries do better from planting in the fall here, or were so planted some years ago, and it was claimed that they would bear half a crop the next season if [illegible] well mulched and cared for. We [illegible] one who has experience give [illegible] information as to the latest experience on the subject. If we are not mistaken the [illegible] fall planting and proper mulching is absolutely necessary to [illegible] the next season. [illegible] at help in securing [illegible] of delicious fruit.

[illegible] who grow a reliable supply of small fruit [illegible] market for them [illegible]. The towns are [illegible] on the [illegible] reasonable that [illegible] market [illegible] easy [illegible] there is always a [illegible] for your own family that should be [illegible] health they bring [illegible].

[illegible] of older plants [illegible] necessary for them. The earth between the rows [illegible] fresh [illegible] from the lawn in September are in better condition than those not so treated. Blue grass, white clover, [illegible] other weeds which start growth [illegible] are easily killed at that time. It requires much more work to clean them out in spring, when time is more valuable, and if not cleaned out they materially injure the crop. The most profitable way is to clean out every weed or spear of grass as soon as it can be seen. If people only knew the great profit that came from thorough cultivation and proper care they would take pains to have all plants of the kind given proper cultivation. We venture the assertion that those who have cultivated their orchards and fruit gardens well and as they should be have derived twice the profit from them that others have that have given them only careless cultivation. Thorough work in the right direction will pay in respect to all kinds of farming or fruit growing.

CHERRIES FOR EXPORT

Oregon is famous for its cherries and very fortunately there is nothing injurious to the fruit when the trees are properly cultivated and cared for. The cherry differs from some fruits in various respects. It needs less pruning than any other orchard trees and there is a popular idea that it does best in sod and is better off without cultivation. This is according to a man's fancy. It may do better than most other fruits in sod, but in California, where they grow this fruit extensively, they cultivate the same as other trees and find their account in it. The cherry only needs pruning to keep it in shape, to take off the superfluous wood and limbs that cross each other. Occasionally old trees need be [illegible] back, but it is certain that the cherry does not need as much pruning as other orchard trees.

The cherries firm enough to ship any distance are very few. There are many kinds good to eat, of excellent relish, that are too tender for shipment to a distance. One who plants a cherry orchard will like to have a few trees that he can use in his family and [illegible] in the [illegible] town, so he [illegible] kinds [illegible] will to the [illegible] of early [illegible]. A very few [illegible] several [illegible] will answer the purpose for this and he will then plant largely of [illegible] fruit will bear long shipment. The varieties are not many, though they [illegible] increased when some Oregon seedlings come into general use. The chief of these is a seedling from the Black Republican, which is every way a larger and finer fruit than that favorite cherry.

The varieties that ship best, and are being grown in great numbers, are the Royal Ann and the Black Republican. The Royal Ann is red and white cherry, of large size, and when thoroughly ripe of good flavor. It [illegible] after the [illegible] The [illegible] Republican comes late and [illegible]. It is a medium sized fruit of [illegible] or [illegible] long, very black when ripe and has a rather [illegible] flavor that many like, and it is a fruit that is especially in demand.

The Royal Ann is a favorite with canners, being a fine light color. It has not [illegible] quite a flavor as some, but is so firm and [illegible] that its shipping qualities make up for all deficiencies. The report of the fruit growers' association recommends these two and also the Black Tartarian, which is an early fruit, and the Black Biggareau, which is a later variety. Personal experience enables us to testify to the excellence of the Black Eagle, which is a very fine fruit and attains good size and becomes a dark purple. This may be less firm than some but is firm enough to stand shipment a long way. Its size, flavor and color recommend it. Our fruit growers always sold them when they had a light color and did not know how dark they could get until a few left on the tree attained large size and turned purple. It has the peculiarity of being eatable for a long time—from the time it is red and white until it turns dark.

The trouble with cherries is that we are dependent on the dealers and canners for a price, and as yet there are few canners. How to make a market for them is a question time will answer. One who plants trees now must be moderate in anticipations and not expect prices as in the past. No doubt fruit growing will pay fairly well and better than any other crop, but when it increases, as it must, and competition becomes strong, the fruit grower must expect to receive moderate prices for his product, and that will be better than common agriculture a long way.

NEEDED LEGISLATION

Two years ago the Fruit Growers' Association appointed a committee to prepare a bill for presentation to the legislature, to be passed as a law for the protection of orchards. This committee had the advantage of the existing law of California on the same subject. In that state the great number of insect pests long since made it necessary to have stringent laws and to create a state commission with subordinates in every county and township to enforce its conditions.

This committee found the majority of members in sympathy with this measure and alive to its importance, but they were unfortunate in introducing their bill too late in the session to permit of action upon it. A measure of such importance should be prepared and ready for presentation at the opening of the session and have friends in both houses who will push it through without delay. Forty days being the limit of an Oregon session and over two weeks being occupied with preliminaries, there remains but a short time for the work of legislation. The coming legislature has a senator to elect and that sometimes complicates matters, so this time the fruit growers propose to take time by the forelock and have their bill prepared and friends made for it in advance.

It is true that Oregon has not yet the numerous scourges in the way of insect pests that infest California, but they will come here fast enough and we have already some that are very destructive. The apple tree aphis is passing away, but may come again at any time. We have the woolly aphis that literally ruins orchards in California. When it [illegible] possession they dig up their trees. Some Oregon orchards have been infested [illegible] and it is a question how destructive they will become. There are various other species of aphis that have a foothold, but not yet serious in their injury to tree or fruit. But we have in the codling moth one enemy that will soon entirely destroy the apple and pear crop, and in some sections of this part of Oregon have the present year totally ruined these fruit. If they are allowed to increase without hindrance they will make the growing of those fruits a useless business. The fruit that is infested by them is worthless even to make cider unless people are willing to take worms and all. Some witty fellow has denominated such cider a new sort of "bouillon," a saying that carries a forcible idea with it.

To be effective the law must create officers with authority to enforce its provisions, and must require all fruit growers to use the best and cheapest prevention known. It is necessary that such prevention should be universal, or it will be useless to attempt it. The codling moth may be successfully treated by one man and may breed by millions in the orchard of his neighbor. Then the worm that bred in spring becomes a moth to be the parent of a crop that will ruin both early and mid summer. If all the orchards are treated properly in spring there will be very few later. While every intelligent fruit grower will be glad to know of a prevention he can save his crop with, others will be indifferent, so it is necessary to have a suitable and efficient law passed for the protection of all fruit growers.

Those who have tried spraying say they can do it at small cost. To judge by the estimates made this will not amount to even a penny a bushel for fruit in average years. It is then to pay a penny to save a bushel or not have it at all.

Such a law will anticipate the pests to come, and if they make a first appearance be able to deal with them without delay. Years ago intelligent fruit growers saw early apples for sale in Portland that were brought hither from California and had these worms in them. They predicted what has followed and now the loss is many times what the enforcement of a law would cost. Now the question is: Shall these pests have unlimited opportunity to harm, and shall no provision be made to prevent other such depredators from attaining similar foothold?

THE CODLING MOTH

At the recent meeting of fruit growers held in this city the codling moth was pretty thoroughly discussed and spraying criticised. There were present several large fruit growers who fitted up spraying apparatus last spring and attempted to save their fruit from the worms. In regard to apples it is thought they saved a large proportion, though many were wormy. Several reasons were given for this partial failure. One was that soon after the first spraying a rain came, and there were heavy and continuous rains after that, which may have washed off the poison. Another reason was that the spraying was generally done so late that it could not be made thoroughly effective. But the conclusion was that there was no reason for discouragement, as spraying was effective elsewhere.

With respect to Bartlett pears the spraying seemed satisfactory, as these pears were hardly touched by the worms. But it appears that other Bartletts were also free from worms, and the proof was not so strong. The opinion seemed to be that Bartletts come so early as to be ahead of the codling moth. But two persons said that while the orchard trees that were sprayed were perfectly free from worms, they had a few in their home gardens that were not sprayed that were somewhat infested. So the evidence was rather in favor of some good done by spraying. Another conclusion arrived at was that no other remedy than spraying could be depended on.

How arsenical poison acted to prevent or destroy these pests we confess never to have seen stated, though we have read carefully and for information, so this writer came to the erroneous conclusion that it prevented the moth from laying its eggs, but the true solution is that when the worm hatches it eats the fruit and is killed by the arsenic. That shows how easy it is to be mistaken.

While the early crop of worms was not large, the second crop that comes about midsummer was very destructive. The first eggs are laid in the calyx of the fruit and eat in from there; the later ones eat in at the side or on any part, and do not make quite as filthy work of it as the first ones do. Some insect friendly to the apple destroyed many of the insects while in the process of transformation by eating into the cocoon and killing the pupa, but the terrible increase of this pest is manifest by the immense quantity of fruit that covers the ground in all apple and pear orchards. This destruction is fearful, and if fruit is of any value must be checked by any possible means. Where a few neighbors combine they can procure a spraying apparatus that can spray 500 small trees, ten to fifteen years old, in a day. Such a rig can be gotten up for $10 to $70 that will do effectual work. London purple is not expensive—thirty-five to forty cents per pound—and the saving will be great in proportion to the cost.

TOBACCO

Tobacco does well in Western Oregon and matures in fairly good season. The only trouble with it is its great strength [illegible] strong for ordinary use in cigars or for chewing. There certainly should be some way to make available what grows so readily. There is a small piece of tobacco growing at Newberg that is close by the railroad [illegible] a quantity of it seems to be raised. It is customary to [illegible] it for [illegible] purpose, and when it becomes necessary to do so no doubt Oregon manufacturers will find a way if they have the will. A great deal of tobacco goes into consumption here, and there are many small cigar makers. If some heavy concern would take hold of the business and manufacture "the weed" into its various commercial shapes it might be found possible to use a great deal of the Oregon product. If there could be as much manufactured as is used in our country it would be an interesting feature of trade and would put a great deal of money in the hands of our producers. Tobacco is grown successfully in Connecticut valley, where the soil is well suited to it. For many years they have grown a mild quality of tobacco there and it has become a product of great value, crowding out many other farm crops. Some years ago a tobacconist of Portland was handed some that grew up this valley. He made use of it and reported that while it was otherwise good material he found it too strong for his purpose. In some cases they weaken the tobacco to suit their use of it, and it may be possible that Oregon tobacco can be manufactured so as to be serviceable.

It is suggested that our cool nights may be responsible for the strength of this crop, and in this climate it finds time to thoroughly mature and gain all the strength it is capable of containing. There are different climates in this state, and where the experiment stations are at work it may be that tests can be made in different localities that will encourage its growth. Many farmers from the old tobacco growing states grow enough for their own use every year and manage to chew and smoke what they grow. Southern Oregon has a climate that may be suited to this crop, and if so there must be more or less of it grown there. The river bottoms of the country east of the Cascades that grow peaches and Muscat grapes should be faithfully tried to see if tobacco will grow there. There is so much tobacco used and it does so little harm that there is not the objection to its cultivation that there is to wine and spirituous liquors.

BROWNSVILLE NOTES

Mr Fred Anderson is still very low with fever.

Mr John Stenger, our boiler [illegible], has just returned from a short visit to [illegible] on business.

Mr James Simmons is building quite a fine house here and will soon have it ready to move into.

Quite a number of our people have gone or are preparing to attend the Mechanics' fair at Portland.

Mrs Ida Foust and family from Heppner are spending a few days visiting her numerous relatives here.

Messrs Waters & Morlock are shipping off lots of flour the past two weeks, both by wagon and railway.

Several hands have been laid off from the woolen mills here the past ten days, as business is getting dull.

This fall the merchants are getting in lots of goods, and notwithstanding it is election year business is good.

Mr John Moore has purchased William A Cove's house here and moved into it from his farm up near Harrisburg.

Dr W H Rowland, a former resident of this place but now hailing from Ogden, Utah, is here visiting relatives and friends.

Messrs Curl and Persiful have just returned from a four days hunt and got one deer. They report game very scarce.

Miss Hattie Long, teacher of the primary department of the North Brownsville school, is sick with fever, so there will probably be no school this week.

The great topic of interest here the past week has been the news of the marriage in Prineville lately of Miss Carrie Bowles and Albert Masterson, both formerly of this place.

On the 18th we are to have a political discussion here by Messrs McLean and Skipworth, and as we have had no political speaking here yet we look for a large attendance.

Mr Wm Stevenson was hurt by a [illegible] of heavy timber striking him while at work with the bridge builders on the narrow gauge road, making the third man injured since work commenced.

Several strangers have moved into our town of late, and one family, that of Mr J W Swearingen, a cousin of Mr S B Standish, have come from Kansas to cast their lot with us and report several more families to follow.

Mr W R Kirk bought Mr Joseph White's hops the past week, also a small lot from the Long Bros, paying them something over $2700, or at the rate of 18 cents per pound. The Templeton Bros have not sold their crop of hops yet and are busy baling. They have a big lot of prime hops on hand.

DELAYED MAILS

The trains on the narrow gauge road are getting in later every week, and if this state of affairs keeps on it is only a question of time, and not a very long one either, when it will be daylight before they arrive here from Portland, and the complaints concerning our mail matter are not only loud but deep. There is already serious talk of getting our mails to come via Halsey, as of old, so we could get letters the same day they left Portland, instead of having to wait till the second day as we do now. For the past month we have never had a mail here the same day it left Portland, and it has become monotonous at last.

MINING NOTES

The news from the mines is not important. The Crœsus Company have shipped a ton of ore to San Francisco for testing and many are waiting to hear the returns from that before doing any more work.

Mr W Robe is at work on the Pioneer ledge on the Calapooia, and Messrs Adams & Co intend to go up and commence operations on the Gold Dust Company this week. Dr Young also departed for the mines the past week from here.

The Lucky Boy Company—Messrs Dyson, Standish & Moore—intend to start for their claim the middle of this week and are going to cut a trail up Quartz creek to their mine and put in supplies so as to work their main tunnel this winter. The lower tunnel is in now 130 feet and is about ninety feet deep below the croppings of the ledge, and as the casing has been struck they look for the lead soon, but the rock is so hard that only six inches per day of twenty-four hours with six men can be made and the progress is very slow. Several seams of quartz have been found showing free gold in abundance and lots of water is coming in at the face of the tunnel, and all these things are very favorable to expect a rich ledge not far away.

WASCO COUNTY FAIR.

Closing Report of the Last Week's Exhibition at The Dalles.

The Exhibition of Sheep and Hogs—Display of Fruits, Cereals, Vegetables and Articles of Fancy Work

THE DALLES, Oct 15

There were only two flocks of sheep on exhibition, all Spanish merinos, but they were very good and again show what a farmer's paradise Oregon is. In size, fineness of wool and weight of fleece they were certainly equal to the sheep raised in Australia, an advantage perhaps coming from the atmosphere of Eastern Oregon being so much dryer and lighter than in other sections of the state. Judging from the specimens present and from the fact the district has large quantities of sheep it is to be regretted the owners did not send more in for exhibition.

R A Thompson & Son, The Dalles, exhibit a flock of twenty Spanish merinos, at the head of which is Wasco [illegible] buck of rare form and beauty. He was bred [illegible] W Woolsey from a Vermont [illegible] of distinction [illegible] all things has [illegible] to his breeding, having sheared a thirty-seven pound fleece and now weighs 150 pounds. He originally cost $ [illegible].

Two other rams [illegible] Mr Withycombe of Salem [illegible] very fine animals. Four ewes, two years old, imported from Bullard's flock [illegible] the Bullard ewes, a great variety. Three of the Oregon raised ewes bred by Wasco were especially fine, shearing last year's fleeces 22½ pounds each [illegible] are expected to reach 25 pounds. The whole average of the Thompson flock shear 14 pounds and on common pasture will dress on an average 80 or 90 pounds. These are sheep which few countries in the world except Oregon produce. California cannot approach the record. A proof of the superiority of Oregon in this line were three yearling bucks from the Woolsey breed, which will be used in the flock to avoid too in-breeding, though much inferior to the Oregon raised sheep. Mr Thompson's farm is about five miles from town and on it he has fifty acres of alfalfa which net two tons to the acre, with three cuttings a year. It is the grandest alfalfa possible and grown without irrigation. In Los Angeles county even irrigation is indispensable.

There was another fine flock of Spanish merinos on exhibition but many attempts made to get particulars of them all failed from the absence of the person in charge. This is to be regretted, as the buck, a fine animal, beat Mr Thompson's Wasco for the "blue ribbon." The description of a prize taking animal is always interesting and important.

The sheepmen of Wasco county, it was learned, are all solid, with one or two exceptions, against the Mills bill and free wool. Like their brothers in Southern Oregon, they feel free trade in wool would ruin them, as they would then be powerless against the influx of Australian fine wool, where from several causes it can be grown so much cheaper than in Oregon.

SWINE

There were only two lots of these animals on exhibition, but like all other livestock present they were good.

R. A. Thompson and sons, The Dalles. A thoroughbred Poland China sow 2 years old weighs 350 pounds without special feeding; very fine. Also two yearling boars from the above sow by Mr Tongue's fine Berkshire boar. This is evidently going to make a successful cross and is worthy of further trial and experience.

E Frost of Dufur. Van Troup Essex boar, from Joseph Harris' stock, 17 months old, weighs 480 pounds, from stubble feed only. This is going to be one of the finest boars of his class in Oregon. Also Polly, an Essex sow, 14 months old, from same stock. This very fine sow has a litter of six young pigs [illegible] months old, that with the mother form a notable picture of their kind.

POULTRY

It is to be regretted there was not a single bird of any kind on exhibition, while last year there was a large quantity. No doubt the climate of Eastern Oregon is admirably suited for poultry raising. This missing link in the exhibition was much commented on. The general sentiment seemed to be that The Dalles and a radius of five miles can beat all Oregon, if not the world, for grand poultry of all varieties.

THE PAVILION

This division of the fair, which may rightly be called the ladies' division, for it is naturally full of pretty things, the product of nature, art and domestic talent, the point most attractive to them, this year presented a very pitiable appearance. Hitherto since the establishment of the fair the large hall has been crowded with the fine productions of the county and its homes, while this year not a fourth part was occupied, and further, while the general attendance outside was really good every day, the pavilion was never really crowded once during the week. Evidently the cause of disturbance, whatever it may be in fact, has spread through all ranks of the local society, and having reached the gentler sex has reached its most dangerous point.

Still again, as in other respects, everything in the pavilion, so far as it went, was of the highest character, speaking immensely in favor of the district and the state, both in cereals, fruits, vegetables, domestic accomplishment and mechanical arts.

APPLES

Of these there were eleven different varieties on exhibition, not one of which, for size, flavor, soundness, form and color, were wanting in a single essential, whether for summer or winter use. Among the most conspicuous were the Roxbury Russet and the Swaar, both winter apples; they were very large, running all through the samples one pound five ounces to one pound and a half each.

One exhibit in this class was particularly interesting in a climatic sense. It was a second growth for the year from the mission gardens, which seem to take the lead in all exhibits for excellence and good care, of Red June apples, and for size and quantity as the fruit appears on the boughs was truly wonderful as an evidence of the fecundity of the trees and the richness of the bunchgrass soil. Within the city limits of The Dalles and for ten miles around this soil is said to have the same characteristics. The gardens in the towns certainly sustain the assertion.

PEARS

Of these there were twenty or more varieties on exhibition and, as with the apples, it would be fastidiousness to ask in real essential, whether of summer or winter varieties, anything finer. The Beurre Clairgeau and Beurre d'Anjou were perhaps the best samples shown. The former is a fall pear.

The quinces were not specially good. Perfection in this fruit belongs to California. But as they are not a generally useful fruit, and everything else in Oregon is so good, she needn't care much about deficiency in quinces. They are something like the fruit that tempted mother Eve—not of much account.

Flowers and preserves were limited in number, and the former not particularly distinguished in either color or growth, though the form of some showed judicious cultivation.

VEGETABLES

Here again the display was singularly good and sufficiently varied. The Early and Late Rose potatoes could not be beaten in any country, the light soils of the county being especially adapted to potatoes. Nearly the whole lots of these varieties on exhibition would go from one to two pounds and were quite sound in the inside, a rare feature in very large potatoes. The Baker's Blue also weighed 1½ pounds each. Beets and carrots grown in the city limits were good. The egg plant and red peppers were rather surprising for the district, and showed that few things come wrong to the climate of Oregon.

Squash and watermelons were remarkably fine, numbers of the former weighing from 50 to 75 pounds, while last year some reached 160 pounds. That is getting into California's best figures. One iron-clad watermelon weighed 68¾ pounds. Some of these fruits and vegetables were grown in the mountains 2000 feet above sea level without irrigation. What will the croakers and unbelievers say to that? Onions, on exhibition, were specially good, some of the Red Weatherfields weighing two pounds and nine ounces each and very sweet in flavor. The best sample of average California onions raised in San Luis Obispo county, which took the premium at the Centennial, only weigh five pounds apiece. All things considered, this record of Oregon's growth may be considered the better of the two. Add flavor to the two growths and Oregon in the contest takes the "blue ribbon." The Hercules gourds present measured three feet and one inch in length.

CEREALS

The samples in this line were very superior, especially the wheat. No country, it would seem, could produce more perfect wheat in regularity of size, plumpness of grain and thinness of husk. The average yield of the county is from 25 to 40 bushels to the acre. The rye was also very good. No oats were shown. Corn, white and red, was very perfect in growth. Many cobs were eleven inches in length. The average yield is about 25 bushels to the acre.

The most satisfactory and surprising of the vegetable exhibits was one single vine of sweet potatoes with eighteen potatoes on it [illegible] of which measured [illegible] inches in length and [illegible] inches in circumference. The flavor was said to be excellent. It must be remembered with the clanting [illegible] is the [illegible] product of California [illegible]. This vine shows how the farmers in Oregon [illegible] experimenting [illegible] to their wonderful advantage [illegible] that where the sweet potato and winter [illegible] will grow everything [illegible] will grow in [illegible].

[illegible]

There was a [illegible] exhibited by Mr Mc[illegible] the [illegible] from [illegible] of which he did the [illegible] credit. There was [illegible] the [illegible] of Shelbyville [illegible] various [illegible] library and [illegible] erate money in the cabinet. Both these [illegible] much attention.

The Wasco Independent Academy, an excellent local institution, furnished the art gallery with some fine statues and good paintings.

[illegible] had truly a magnificent specimen of silver ore from the Good Queen mine, wherever that may be situated.

Mrs I P Mays showed a very creditable collection of amateur photographs.

The Mission gardens showed five young fruit trees that attested the marvelous physical growth of the Pacific coast in the strongest manner. One cherry tree a year old from seed was 9 feet high.

One apple and one pear, same age, 8 feet high.

Two apple trees, same age, 10 feet high, 1¼ inch in diameter. No instance of the same physical growth could be [illegible] except a yearling pear tree in San Jose, California, years ago, which at that age bore five large pears, the smallest being one pound in weight. This was in the garden of Mr Adams.

MECHANICAL ART

One of the most interesting and instructive exhibitions in the pavilion, both in design and workmanship, was a large, elegant case of horse shoes by G T Thompson and Farghar of The Dalles. As horseshoeing is a most important feature in farm work and common life it is a most appropriate exhibit at a county fair, and in this case deserves a more than common notice for its rare excellence. Every disease of the foot, malformation of the foot or improper action of the horse while traveling are provided for and remedied by the knowledge and skill of these men. The Maud S shoe was the most conspicuous of all, not for its conception, for that belongs to Mr Bonner, but for its improvement in design and elegant workmanship.

It is well known that the most delicate and sensitive part of a horse's foot is the heel, and as velocity is weight it became necessary to especially protect the heel of this wonderful animal when trotting a mile in 2:10, or in other words covering forty feet of ground in every second of time. So the heel of the shoe was lengthened behind and a bar made in the shape of the center of a curb bit of a bridle, thrown across the frog of the foot, which when in a healthy condition will bear more pressure and pounding than any other part. In fact the frog of the foot seems intended by nature for this especial duty while the animal is moving. The idea is correct and most important in shoeing a horse.

It is in the fine workmanship of the shoe that Thompson and Farghar have distinguished themselves. All the other shoes were equal in workmanship, but only original in design, but the Maud S shoe drew the most attention.

In a horse country like Eastern Oregon good horseshoers are invaluable to all classes, for hundreds of horses are ruined every year by bad and ignorant work on the foot.

Messrs Dunn & Co showed a new washing machine of their invention which claims to do quicker and better work than others and never to rub buttons off any garments.

Another man, name not learned, had a new scrubbing brush for floors which when wanted picks up all the loose water and thus saves the time and trouble of mopping. If American inventors after awhile don't give the world a life of ease, especially housewives, it will be because the thing cannot be done. Altogether, so far as they went, the contents of the Pavilion gave a very correct idea of the great resources and capacities of the county.

FRIDAY'S RACES

The first was the novelty race and really a novelty in principle, for every horse has a chance to win something. It is run in quarters and [illegible] horse by [illegible] riding and the best performance of the horses. In this race Tom Benton took first quarter easily in [illegible]; Klickitat Tom the second in 32¾, third in [illegible], fourth in 1:19¾, winning the race by a nose from Shyster. The talent in this race got a long way the wrong end of the pool.

The next race was the 2:50 trot, with three starters, best two in three:

Susie	1	1	1
Kitty Hunt
Mark Knox

Time [illegible]

In this race Susie showed herself a fine trotter, never making a skip in any heat. If pushed she could have lowered the time.

The next was a three-quarter mile dash, free for all, with two starters. Dave[illegible] being [illegible] and Jim Merritt fined $10 for not coming out.

Tom	1
Bo[illegible]	—

This was the best contested race of the week, Tom beating Bogus after a severe struggle by a head only. Time 1:20.

Something should be said by right about the town and district, but this report has already reached its limit. On returning from the Wallowa mines a better opportunity will be had to see the district and then this subject will be enlarged upon with propriety. The Dalles is the door of the great Inland Empire and has an established future. It does not seem possible, judging from the laws of nature, the town can be separated from the future growth and prosperity of Portland.

Killed a Shark.

On Wednesday a feat was performed at Newport, says the News, which was very novel and surprising. Miss Fanny Seaforth and Miss Mary Westfall, who with a number of their friends all from Polk county were spending a few days by the seaside, and while standing upon a log which projected out into the bay discovered a large fish slowly swimming toward them. They procured a large rock and when the fish came close alongside hurled the missile at him and, strange to say, hit him square on the back, which projected a little above the surface of the water. This entirely paralyzed their victim and rendered him an easy prey. They dragged him ashore and the funny looking fish proved to be a veritable shark three and a half feet in length.

What Will Happen

Utica (N Y) Herald

If Cleveland is elected within four years a democratic United States supreme court will be holding terms in Washington and making decisions on the constitutional amendments. The democratic convention of 1868, in which Chief Justice Fuller was a delegate, declared that the reconstruction act, including the amendments, were unconstitutional, revolutionary and void, and Justice Lamar has said but recently that he regarded the amendments as irregularly adopted.

A STRIKING SPEECH.

Relations of the East and West Under the Tariff System.

Crushing Reply by Mr Blaine to Cleveland's Postmaster-General

One of the most interesting speeches yet delivered by Mr Blaine was the speech at Grand Rapids, Mich, on the 8th October. It was a reply to Don M Dickinson, postmaster general, and it fairly roasted him. Dickinson had said in a speech in Michigan:

New England selfishly hangs [illegible] the body politic, absorbing the wealth and giving nothing in return. We buy of New England at extortionate prices, kept up by the tariff, while at the same time we sell her nothing.

To this Mr Blaine made the following crushing reply:

If Mr Dickinson in these deliverances speaks the words of soberness and truth it is a very serious matter. If New England, under a protective tariff, is a [illegible] charge to the West, every year it is bringing nothing from her, it presents [illegible] an aspect of affairs as there could be a [illegible] change. Evidently it is [illegible] permanent condition of trade. [illegible] the statements by Mr Dickinson I set myself to work to procure some statistics [illegible] the benefit of the [illegible] every [illegible] Western [illegible] complaining that [illegible] especially New England [illegible] especially speak at this time, get everything and gives nothing [illegible] and buy nothing [illegible] the same time [illegible] beyond the [illegible] and that [illegible] West [illegible] for the [illegible] profit [illegible] You [illegible] always tell one of them by that [illegible] [Laughter]

Well I have been busy for a day or two past with the aid of my friend Gov Alger in securing some statistics on the point of New England taking nothing from the West. In the first place I find that she takes between 500,000 and 600,000 tons of grain annually. She raises only 4 per cent of what her people need for breadstuff, and she takes between 500,000 and 600,000 tons of grain from the West. [Cheers] Next, there are annually raised in this country 300,000,000 pounds of wool. We had only 60,000,000 pounds of wool grown annually by the farmers of the country when the free trade tariff was in operation, just before the war, but under the effect of the protective tariff we have increased the amount of wool grown almost wholly in the West to 300,000,000 pounds annually, and it brings a vast aggregate of nearly $100,000,000 [Cheers] to the farmers of the country. Mr Cleveland recommends that the duty on that be repealed, and that we shall put the woolgrower of the West on the same plane as the woolgrower of Australia and Canada. The republicans say No, and New England, of which Mr Dickinson speaks so disrespectfully, takes every year half of that entire wool crop and pays the West $45,000,000 a year for it. [Cheers] Besides, as New England needs bread, for which she pays the West $30,000,000 a year, she needs also provisions—which includes all forms of meat and for that and poultry, in addition, imported from the West, New England pays the farmers of these Western states $55,000,000 a year. [Cheers] Moreover the people of the East want some butter to spread on their bread, and they do not make enough at home [laughter and applause] and they pay the West over $3,000,000 a year for that. Then New England needs a good deal of lumber—hardwood and pine—and there are just three states here from which she gets it—Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and she takes $15,000,000 a year of Western lumber, principally from Michigan. Then, of copper and lead and salt and hides, and lumber, which are taken from the Western states in the aggregate about $30,000,000 more. The aggregate, you will observe, is well up to $200,000,000. We all know that Mr Don Dickinson belongs to an administration that can afford to lend bankers $60,000,000 a year of government money without interest, so that he probably thinks $200,000,000 is not much of a sum. [Cheers and laughter] but to those of us in the East who pay it and to those of you in the West who receive it it does somehow or other come very handy in settling our balance at the end of the year. [Laughter and applause] This little bit of a New England which Mr Dickinson speaks of contemptuously is only having 4,000,000 of people, this little bit of a frozen place on the northeast corner of the United States, takes $60,000,000 worth of cotton from the Southern states, and she goes down to Pennsylvania and Maryland and West Virginia with their coal, iron and steel, and of the products of coal, iron and steel she takes $34,000,000 more. Then she takes as large an amount of petroleum and hemp and rice and fruit of all kinds, and in the grand aggregate that little bit of a piece of country scarcely so large as the state of Illinois—six little states—takes more than $400,000,000 worth of material from the other states of the Union, and in the grand exchange between East and West makes the trade profitable to both, and then keeps the money at home instead of sending it beyond the sea.

I telegraphed last Saturday to learn the total value of products that we sent to Old England last year of all imaginable articles, and I ascertained that it was $[illegible],000,000. [Cheers] Now gentlemen, if you want to know what the value of the home market at your doors is by the exchange of industries, see what 4,000,000 of people engaged in the arts and industries of life can take from you at your door, and among your fellow citizens, as compared with forty millions beyond the seas. [Cheers] Is anything more needed to prove the wonderful advantage of a home market? I am speaking only of New England. There is New York and New Jersey, and that great state of Pennsylvania, and the vast West, of which I do not speak, for I am in working only for the [illegible] that has been assailed by the postmaster general. But gentlemen, beyond this, the tariff is not limited to New England or to the East in its protective operation. If I wished to show what a protective tariff could do for the prosperity of the people I would not tarry in New England, nor in New York, nor in New Jersey, nor in Pennsylvania. I would come out to the West. I would come to Michigan. I would come into Grand Rapids [applause] and I would say: Look at this great and prosperous city. It was a town of 8000 people the day Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated, and it is a city to-day of nearly 80,000 [applause], with industries mounting in the aggregate to $[illegible],000,000 a year, and such is the vast subdivision of labor you have that there are more than a hundred different trades and callings in full operation. I have had the pleasure of reading the report of your board of trade to-day, and it gives your product in your main articles $6,000,000 in furniture, $1,800,000 of planing mill, $700,000 in boots and shoes, and more than $1,000,000 in tanning of leather. Why, the industries of the country are not in the East. They are coming to the West, and the influence of the protective tariff with its great stimulus of industries is at your own door. [Applause]

But Mr Dickinson has other grievances with New England, and he threatens great things against her. He is going to show how old federal New England did not support the war of 1812. [Laughter and applause] Well, I wish he would. He will find two gentlemen from rank old federal families in President Cleveland's cabinet [Laughter and applause]. They can give him what information he wants on that point. [Laughter] I mean Mr Bayard and Mr Endicott. Ah, says Mr Dickinson, and flying from his contest with the old federalists, he says New England did not contribute anything like her share in putting down the rebellion; she did not do even as well as Missouri and Kentucky. Before answering Mr Dickinson, I wanted to certify my memory, and I telegraphed to ascertain how many soldiers the six New England states contributed to the war for the Union. You will remember that there were only [illegible],000,000 of people in New England then; there were not [illegible],000 arms bearing people in the whole of the six states. In answer to my telegram I learned that New England sent [illegible],000 soldiers to the army, and 45,000 sailors to the navy. [Cheers]

I have a piece of advice to give Mr Dickinson. There was once a very forward, upstartish member of Gen Scott's staff, and he was always talking in a way that mortified his associates and his chief. The old general at last, out of all patience, said to him one evening: "My young friend, you would be greatly improved by studying the history of your country." [Laughter and applause] My friends, you know a man who talks as a cabinet officer represents the national administration. Once upon a time an officer of the cabinet was asked a question in parliament which he could not answer, and Charles James Fox, who was of the opposition, said: "There is one fault that can never be forgiven in a cabinet officer—ignorance." [Laughter and cheers] I commend Mr Don M Dickinson to a serious and prayerful study of this short saying of Charles James Fox. [Laughter and cheers]

In Indiana.

New York Special (Oct 10) to Chicago Tribune.

Col New of Indiana has returned to his desk at the republican national headquarters. When he left some weeks ago for Indianapolis to attend to his private business, the democratic papers with great parade said he had been called there to help save the state for Harrison and that he would not return. They further alleged that the republicans had practically given up Indiana and called Col New home as a last resort. A reporter asked him if the above had any foundation. He replied:

"None whatever. They are merely the [illegible] campaign lies. If the republicans [illegible] Indiana will give [illegible] of 10,000 at least. We have [illegible] the state and are satisfied. [illegible] have also made a [illegible]."

What Scott's Emulsion Has Done.

Over 25 Pounds Gain in Ten Weeks Experience of a Prominent Citizen.

THE CALIFORNIA SOCIETY FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF VICE,
SAN FRANCISCO, July 7th, 1886

I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into bronchitis, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered me to a more congenial climate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I commenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 155 to 180 pounds and over; the cough meantime ceased. C. R. BENNETT.

An Important Announcement

About six weeks ago, while at business, I was suddenly attacked with excruciating pains in my feet, knees and hands. So severe the attack that I took my bed immediately, and in two or three days my joints were swollen to almost double their natural size, and sleep was driven from me. After suffering the most excruciating pain for a week, using liniments and various other remedies a friend who sympathized with my helpless condition said to me

Why don't you get Swift's Specific and use it. I will guarantee a cure, and if it does not the medicine shall cost you nothing"

I at once secured the S. S. S. and after using it the first day, had a quiet night and refreshing sleep. In a week I felt greatly benefitted In three weeks I could sit up and walk about the room, and after using six bottles I was out and able to go to business. Since then I have been regularly at my post of duty and stand on my feet from nine to ten hours a day and am entirely free from pain. These are the plain and simple facts in my case and I will cheerfully answer all inquiries relative thereto, either in person or by mail. THOMAS MAGUIRE, 11 W 18th street, New York City

NASHVILLE, TENN —"I have warded off a severe attack of rheumatism by a timely resort to Swift's Specific. In all cases where a permanent relief is sought this medicine commends itself for a constitutional treatment that thoroughly eradicates the seeds of disease from the system.

Rev W P HARRISON, D D

NEW YORK 51 7TH AVE.—After spending $200 to be relieved of Blood Poison without any benefit a few bottles of Swift's Specific worked a perfect cure. C. PORTER.

VIENNA GA —My little girl aged six and boy aged four years, had scrofula in the worst aggravated shape They were puny and sickly To-day they are healthy and robust, all the result of taking S. S. S.

JOE T COLLIER.

LADY LAKE, SUMTER CO., FLA.—Your S. S. S. has proved a wonderful success in my case. The cancer on my face, no doubt, would have soon hurried me to my grave. I do think it is wonderful, and has no equal.

B. H. BYRD Postmaster

DR. WARREN'S YERBA BUENA BITTERS.

Extract from letter received Sept. 13th It is impossible to give even an idea of what I have suffered for years I tried everything and doctored with the best doctors on the coast—at times getting a few days' relief, only to be followed by a return of my stomach troubles. Last spring I began taking your Yerba Buena Bitters and for two months now I eat everything that is placed before me; my sleep is regular and I again take pleasure in the society of my friends.

Nervous, Tired Women Cured by Food.

Nervous exhaustion comes from malnutrition of the nerves. A noted scientist has discovered that if the albumen which feeds the nerves is not fully digested to the consistence of water it cannot be absorbed by them, hence starvation and exhaustion. Consequently they are nourished only in proportion to the ability of the stomach to prepare their food which is the most difficult of all the foods to digest as it must be perfectly done. Not one stomach in five can prepare a sufficient quantity Hitherto artificial digestion has only been able to digest it fine enough for the blood, which only circulates in the muscles and bones. Three years ago this was overcome and as now made has cured a large number of cases of paralysis and cures the nervous and tired in a few hours The preparation is sold at the druggists as Moxie Nerve Food for 50 cents a quart bottle. 23a3m

THE REPORTERS' GLEANINGS

Suit of a Portland Firm Against a Salem Insurance Company.

Racing at City View—A Classmate of General Harrison—Seventh Street Bridge—A Present to the Alpine Club

AN INSURANCE CASE.—The Cohn-Peyser suit now on trial in the circuit court at Salem is a case in which the plaintiffs, Cohn & Bro., of Portland are suing to recover from the North western Fire and Marine Insurance Company $1500 alleged to be due on a policy of insurance held by Peyser on his saloon in Albany. It will be remembered says the Statesman that on the night of December 27 last Peyser was burned out. The next day Cohn & Bro sued him upon on alleged indebtedness of $1800 claimed to be due on notes given some time previous to that time. The insurance company are making their defense upon two grounds: first that the claim of Cohn & Bro is fraudulent and that the notes are fictitious given for the purpose of enabling them to garnishee the insurance money and to leave out other creditors; second that the saloon was burned by Peyser himself for the purpose of defrauding the company. A. N. Steeves and J. J. Murphy appear for the plaintiffs and Tilmon Ford and W. B. Gilbert for the insurance company.

A CLASSMATE OF HARRISON.—Rev. Geo. A. Hutchinson, pastor of the Presbyterian church at The Dalles and who has been attending the past session of the synod of the Columbia bears the distinguished honor of having been for two years and a half the classmate of Benjamin Harrison at Miami college Oxford Ohio says the Salem Statesman. This was in 1850 and 1853 when Mr. Hutchinson left Miami and went to Monmouth college Illinois graduating there in 1852 in the same class with Mrs. J. W. Crawford of Salem. Mr. Hutchinson's recollections of Senator Harrison are that he was a dignified warm hearted bright young man and you can't convince him that he has become in any respect different with his increasing years and honors. He tells many pleasant stories of the next president and is enthusiastic in the support of his candidacy.

TO-DAY'S RACE.—The recent revival in racing and the evenness of the chances in to-day's event at City View were sufficient to put several hundred dollars in the pool box at the Holton last evening. The purse is $300 and the starters Maud Knox Susie S and Kitty Ham. Maud has decidedly the best of the prospect, her size and weight giving her the best of the heavy track. Susie S has been doing some very good work lately having won the thirty-class race at The Dalles in three straight heats. Lewis, her present driver is the same who pulled a winning rein over Chas Hilton in the recent free-for-all here. Kitty Ham has not been acting well of late and her backers were able to buy her at $2 to $3 last night, against $7 to $10 for Susie S and $10 for Maud Knox. The boat for the park will leave Washington street at 1 o'clock.

THE SEVENTH STREET BRIDGE.—Mr. William Jacobson who has the contract for building the bridge on Seventh street, for the N. P. Terminal Co., is getting along well with the work. The bridge is to be 1460 feet long and is to be completed by December 1. The piles for six bents are already driven and without doubt the contract will be completed in time. The Northern Pacific freight depot is progressing favorably. There are only two bents more to be driven to complete the piling and the contractor A. r. Sharno has a large force at work framing timbers laying the floor, etc. As soon as this building is completed the present freight depot formerly called the Kalama depot will be torn down or removed as will also the Caledonia saloon and other buildings in that vicinity to make room for the large union depot which is shortly to be built.

CARGOES FROM SHANGHAI.—Capt. Owen of the British bark Highlands was in the city yesterday and spoke with an OREGONIAN reporter concerning his trip from Shanghai hither which was made in thirty days. "I found it impossible," said Captain Owen, "to secure a cargo for this coast at Shanghai. In fact the only Chinese port from which merchandise can be shipped in paying quantities is Hong Kong. The Colonia gathers together at that city about one cargo each year. This is composed chiefly of tea, Chinese oil, baskets and special articles which the Mongolians at [illegible] use. Indeed the great bulk of Chinese exports comes to us by way of New York having been brought by British traders through the Indian ocean the Suez canal and reshipped again at English ports."

A HANDSOME GIFT.—Mr. Clyde Cooke has written to Mr. D. P. Thompson president of the Alpine club, asking the club to accept his painting of the "Tyrolean Alps" now on exhibition at the Mechanics' fair. To such an offer there can of course be but one answer and Mr. Thompson will accept the present in behalf of the club in his usual graceful and elegant manner and if anyone else has anything pretty he wishes to present to the Alpine Club Mr. Thompson will accept it without a murmur. In fact there isn't much of anything he would not accept except a nomination for the presidency. It may be said here that Mr. Cooke's painting is a very handsome one and peculiarly adapted for presentation to the Alpine Club whose handsomely furnished rooms it will grace.

COMPLETED THE WORK.—The new steam schooner Michigan which has been engaged the greater part of last week in sluicing the bar at Skamokawa did very efficient service in the same manner that the collier Willamette did at St. Helens bar. Between two and three feet of sand and clay was sluiced out across the entire length of the bar and to a width of over 100 feet. The large ships can now enter the port of Skamokawa, there being between twenty four and twenty five feet at extreme high water. The work was done by order of Maj. Jones of the United States engineer corps but Mr. W. M. Colwell of Skamokawa was in immediate charge of the steamer's operations.

FINE STOCK.—Mr. Cass L. Barlow of Barlow Station O. & C. R. R. has on the farm at that place eighteen head of Hambletonian and Morgan stock all being registered and raised by M. Sterling the well known breeder of Island City, Union county. Early in the coming year the stock will be placed on the market and buyers will find in this collection of three year olds animals of kind disposition and such as will give thorough satisfaction. Mr. Barlow's address is care of Staver & Walker of this city, where he can be seen.

FAT STOCK SHOW.—There was a large attendance at the fat stock show yesterday. Everything is now in and the display is a very fine one. Competent judges say that no state in the Union can show finer cattle, horses, sheep or hogs than are on exhibition at this show. There are some very large and handsome St. Bernard dogs of the short haired variety and a lot of fine bred shepherd dogs the most intelligent of their kind. Ladies and children will be delighted with the display of Shetland ponies by Mr. Myer.

DEER SLAUGHTER.—The petitions prepared by the Alpine Club for a law preventing the indiscriminate slaughter of deer for their hides have been very generally gotten out and are being numerously signed throughout the state. Secretary Steel expects that the entire membership of the club, over 300, will affix their names to the petition of the club proper. The remaining petitions are scattered out over the country and will be gathered up in time for presentation to the state legislature.

UPON THE PLATFORM.—Some of the teachers in the High school have been so much interested in Mr. D. P. Thompson's reminiscences of his recent travels in Egypt that they have asked him to lecture before the pupils to-day at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. The history class has just completed its researches in Egyptian history and the address is thus timely. Any who desire to hear Mr. Thompson's remarks will be welcome at the High school at the above mentioned hour.

THEY LIKE THE RAIN.—Eastern people are at a loss to account for the kindliness with which old Oregonians take to rain. "Talk about bad weather!" said a citizen yesterday, during a heavy shower. "I am just beginning to feel like myself. I have been sick nearly all summer, but since it has begun to rain I am getting thoroughly healthy and strong again. Nothing like rainy weather for the web-feet."

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION.—The regular monthly members' meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will occur this evening in the association parlors and will be made the occasion of a reception to the new general secretary, Mr. C. W. Beers. Refreshments will be provided by the ladies of Taylor street M. E. church. A time of good cheer and good fellowship is expected. All friends of the association both ladies and gentlemen are cordially invited to be present.

THE SCARE SUBSIDES.—According to the best reports the smallpox excitement in McMinnville has entirely died out. Two inmates of the pest house have been discharged and all the others are on the way to recovery. Amity has raised its quarantine and it is expected that Lafayette will do likewise shortly. The scare very badly injured business in McMinnville during its presence but things have now assumed their wonted appearance.

HORSE KILLED IN A RUNAWAY.—Yesterday morning J. Kowal proprietor of the Pacific Soda Works left his horse and delivery wagon standing on the corner of Fifteenth and B streets while he went into a saloon to get an order. During his absence a hack came tearing up Fifteenth street and turning the corner at B struck the delivery horse breaking in his chest and demolishing the wagon. The horse was fatally injured.

THE WAY MOTHER COOKED.—Every married man mentions his ma in connection with cooking and then the madam becomes indignant. All Eastern people recollect the way oysters were served at their old home and it is a great satisfaction to them when they drop into Keith's to find a second edition of the home style so familiar and to the taste. No. 7 Washington.

REACHED SAN FRANCISCO.—The many friends of Mr. C. F. Swigert will be glad to learn that he has arrived in San Francisco safe and sound. He will come north with Mr. H. C. Campbell at the conclusion of the latter's present sojourn in that city. Mr. Swigert will assume his old work at the Pacific Bridge Company's office and Mr. Campbell contemplates an Eastern tour.

READY FOR SHIPMENT.—The Willamette Bridge Railway Company received a telegram yesterday stating that the new cars which have been building for them are ready for shipment. The cars, two in number, resemble the new car of the Vancouver line and will be used on the Stark street line. They are provided with a double set of trucks, hand and air brakes.

HE HAS TWO SCHOLARSHIPS.—Hon. D. P. Thompson has at his disposal a scholarship in the State Agricultural College at Corvallis which he will give to anyone desiring it who can pass the necessary examination before the county school superintendent of this county. He has also a scholarship in the State Normal School at Ashland which he will give to anyone who wants it.

A BASEBALL PROPOSITION.—William L. Allen of No. 274 Jessie street, San Francisco writes an open letter care of THE OREGONIAN to the manager of the Willamette baseball club offering to bring a good nine to Portland to play with the Willamettes, providing traveling expenses are guaranteed. He agrees also to play as many games as desired.

THEY WANT HIM.—If a San Francisco telegram is to be believed Van Tassel's London project is not without foundation. People on the other side of the water are said to be anxious for him to come over and aeronaut for them. He says he will never make another ascension in Oregon owing to the dangerous features of the face of the country.

WHERE IS HE?—Miss Emily Bonnand writes to Postmaster Roby endeavoring to ascertain the address of her uncle Mr. Francis Noseret, a native of France. If Mr. Noseret is anywhere in this section he will please write to Miss Bonnand care of Mrs. C. Riyaux postoffice box 168 Woodhaven Queens county, New York.

VERY MUCH PLEASED.—Visitors to the city to attend the Mechanics' fair are much pleased that the assignee's sale of I. Meyer & Co. should occur just at this time. It gives them a chance to take home a fine supply of dry goods, boots, shoes etc. at slaughter prices.

LUNCH TO-DAY.—The lunch served by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church yesterday was of unusual excellence and was largely patronized. A similar one will be served to-day from 12 to 2 o'clock in the church parlors, corner of Third and Washington streets.

AUCTION SALE TO-DAY.—Thirty five acres of land known as the G. B. Pershin tract situated between Portsmouth and Brazee will be sold at auction to the highest bidder at 10 A. M. at the office of J. Fred Clark & Sons, 13 Stark street by Gilman & Co., auctioneers.

AND STILL THEY COME.—Rev. J. Kelsey residing at 292 Fourth street in this city cast his first presidential vote in 1840 for Gen. William H. Harrison at Middleburg, Addison county, Vt. and expects to cast his thirteenth presidential vote for Ben Harrison in November.

WONDERFUL.—Silk plush nineteen inches wide at 59 cents per yard is a rarity even in this age of strong competition. Ten yards only to one person will be sold to-morrow at J. Selling & Co. All colors. Corner window.

A BOOM IN THE NORTH END.—The completion of the great linseed oil manufactory in the north end of the city will create a boom for cottages in Sherlock addition. Some enterprising capitalist should take the hint.

ABOUT REQUIRING BONDS

Have Captains of Police the Right to Fix and Receive Bail

A complaint has been made concerning the practice of police captains allowing prisoners charged with misdemeanors to deposit bail and go at large without any idea that they will appear to answer to the charge or that any effort will ever be made to oblige such persons to appear.

It is claimed that no member of the police force has a right to take bail from any one and the practice is styled an outrageous abuse, putting virtually the whole administration of the law into the hands of the police.

The police captains use their best judgment in this matter probably and there would be no objection to allowing a simple drunk to deposit bail, but in more serious matters the matter should be looked after by a magistrate.

PROPOSED J AND G STREET SEWERS

Bids Opened for the Contracts on This Work—Also for F Street Improvement

The street committee yesterday opened bids for the proposed sewer in G street. They were as follows: B. F. Reilly $2095 27; Oregon Pottery Company $1672 90; D. M. Middleton & Co. cement $1852 03; V. Hepp & Co. cement $2046 96.

The committee also opened bids for a sewer in J street as follows: V. Hepp $5035 50; Oregon Pottery Company $4210 86; B. Gakim $5272 97; D. W. Middleton cement $4945 35; V. Hepp & Co. cement $5083 82. Messrs. Hepp & Co. it will be observed took two chances in the lottery but came no where near getting the job. For the improvement of F street Mr. B. S. Reilly submitted a bid of $665 91.

YELLOWSTONE PARK IN OCTOBER

The Northern Pacific railroad in connection with the Yellowstone Park Association have arranged to furnish transportation and hotel accommodations throughout the park during October at greatly reduced rates. Passenger trains will make the round trip Livingston to Cinnabar and return on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and a five days trip from Cinnabar to the principal points of interest in the park can be made at an expense not to exceed $50. The rail rate from Portland and Tacoma to Cinnabar and return will be $90 and from intermediate points one and one fifth fare, but not to exceed $90.

Tickets will be on sale up to and including October 25. For full particulars inquire of your nearest agent or address A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent, 2 Washington street, corner Front, Portland, Or.

THE IMMIGRATION BOARD.

Special Meeting of This Body Held at the Rooms Yesterday

Various Matters of Interest Considered—Communications Read and Discussed—Portland to be Illustrated.

A special meeting of the Oregon immigration board was held in the office of Secretary Struble at the immigration board rooms yesterday afternoon. Present: C. H. Dodd chairman, W. R. Struble secretary, H. W. Corbett, Sol Hirsch, D. L. Oliphant, D. S. Cohen and T. A. Wood.

Under the head of communications letters were read from O. L. Ellison, J. H. Patterson of Frank Leslie and J. C. Boyd Eastern excursion agent.

The letter of Mr. Ellison at present a staff correspondent of the Minneapolis Tribune was in regard to the dairying possibilities in the Columbia river valley and coast counties of this state. Mr. Ellison is well acquainted with immigration matters and from experience possesses a comprehensive knowledge of the dairying industries both in the Eastern states and in the dairying countries of Europe. He considered that this state presented a vast field for this branch of agriculture.

The letter excited considerable discussion. It was shown that about seven carloads of butter and three carloads of eggs had been shipped here from the East during the past few months. During the summer nearly a million pounds of butter has been shipped from Iowa alone.

Mr. Oliphant said that the only objection to the butter in this state is that it is not made to keep. They were obliged to import Eastern butter. The right process of butter making had not yet come in vogue in this state. Instead of using the process for making granulated butter as in the East our dairies here are still using the centripetal process. It was the unanimous opinion of the members present that this state ought to produce more butter and eggs than it now does.

The letter of Mr. Ellison which had a proposed plan for colonizing this state with experienced dairymen from Europe was ordered to be answered with the thanks of the board. The board was not at present financially able to undertake such an extensive colonization as the letter of Mr. Ellison proposed.

In reply to a letter from the secretary to Mr. J. H. Patterson of Frank Leslie's in which it was stated that 540 subscriptions had been received for the magazine Mr. Patterson wired for the board to prepare the matter, get the cuts and that no cutting in space would be made.

An interesting letter was read from Mr. Boyd and placed on file.

A committee of three consisting of Messrs. Dodd, Oliphant and Cohen was appointed to prepare the illustrations and the write up for Frank Leslie.

A short informal discussion followed in which the members were requested to give their preferences for the illustrations to be used. The board was of about one mind with regard to the leading cuts for this purpose. All were agreed that there should be a cut presenting a bird's eye view of the city, proposed Villard hotel, Front street, First street, High school, postoffice and several churches and factories.

Mr. Oliphant was appointed a committee of one to make arrangements in conjunction with Mr. Boyd for placing the exhibits heretofore at Columbus Ohio in some suitable place in Chicago.

Mr. Dodd stated that the exhibits had been shipped from Columbus to Chicago but that he had not yet received any notice of their arrival at that place. He thought that there must be a delay somewhere or they would have reached their destination sooner.

Mr. Boyd thought that there would be no trouble in having the display put on exhibition in the Union depot. California has an exhibition of fruits set in the Central depot and the Oregon exhibit would show off to good advantage in the Union depot where it would attract more attention and be seen by more people than that of the latter state.

On motion the dried fruit display of Mr. Sladden at the Mechanics' fair was ordered to be bought for the exhibit at Chicago. This fruit consists of twenty four boxes of fifteen pounds each and is offered to the board at $1.75 per box.

The committee on printing reported and submitted bids from different firms in this city for the printing of 200,000 pamphlets. After considerable debating the board decided to make certain changes in the map that is to occupy the first page. It was the general opinion that the first page should be graced with a better map than the one heretofore printed.

The printing committee was authorized to return the bids and receive new ones on the work with improved maps, specimens of which must be submitted to the committee.

The old committee on rooms not being able to report was discharged with the thanks of the board and a new committee consisting of Messrs. Hirsch, Woods and Oliphant was appointed.

Owing to the cramped condition of the present quarters of the board of immigration rooms the board has decided to change to some place more centrally located and where more space can be had for making an attractive display. It is probable the rooms in Union block now used as the headquarters of the republican clubs of this city will be secured.

DISCRIMINATION AGAINST PORTLAND

This Time it Would Seem That the Southern Pacific Are Taking a Hand in the Game

Our board of trade and board of immigration have had something to say at sundry times hitherto about alleged discrimination by the Northern Pacific against the passenger business of Portland but the Southern Pacific seems now to have adopted a system that even the Northern has not been charged with.

It is learned that the Southern has supplied agents on the Oregon & California division of their lines with coupon tickets and rates to Eastern points via Sacramento but have not placed on sale tickets or named rates via Portland. This seems to be a discrimination against Portland never before attempted by any other line. For example a passenger at Ashland can to-day purchase a ticket via Sacramento to Eastern points at practically the same rates that could be secured at Portland. That is the Southern virtually charges the passenger an additional sum for buying his ticket via Portland instead of via Sacramento, thus compelling the passenger to pay local fare from Ashland to Portland and then purchase a through ticket to the East from Portland at the same rate as that charged from Ashland to the East via California.

There would seem to be no need of this even from the Southern's point of view since the revenue accruing to that road on tickets reading via Sacramento and via Portland would be practically the same under division of rates usually agreed on between companies for cases of this kind. That is if the Southern would allow the passenger to come this way, if he desired the short haul would net that road the same revenue as the long haul. But there are mysteries about these things no fellow can understand.

A SOMEWHAT AIRY PROPOSITION

Three English Capitalists Expect to Sell Lumber in This Market Below Competitive Rates

Mr. William Masters, the well known pioneer of Portland very recently returned from a trip East. Mr. Masters came by the way of the Canadian Pacific and in speaking to a reporter of his trip said:

"On my return to Oregon it so happened I was contiguous (in the sleeping car) to three English capitalists who had been extensive lumbermen in Canada. They being the owners of vast tracts of timber land on the Gulf of Georgia and Fraser river in British Columbia were going to that country to erect vast lumber mills. These facts I learned from them and when informed I lived in Portland Oregon and had been on the Pacific coast for thirty-six years, they became more communicative.

"They said their mills would have a capacity to cut 2,000,000 feet in twenty four hours. I then inquired where they expected to find markets for the lumber output. The reply was, 'In California, Oregon and Washington territory.'

"I replied that Oregon and Washington have vast forests of fine timber perhaps as fine and easily marketed as yours, and you will have a tariff to pay on your lumber. This will make it difficult to compete with our lumbermen.

"In reply to this the Englishman said 'the tariff will soon be taken off lumber and the states are about to exclude Chinamen. We admit them. They will crowd our country. We will put them into our forests, get our logs cut very cheap, our lumber handled, our ships freighted at little cost by Chinamen. And we will sell our lumber in your markets at such prices that your lumbermen cannot compete with us and pay American wages.' And then added 'you can see that in a short time we will supply all your markets with lumber at lower prices than your lumbermen can possibly furnish it.'" Since said conversation one of said Englishmen was in Portland.

LACK OF TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

Complaints Still Made Against the Narrow Gauge Management

Complaint is made again concerning the lack of transfer facilities on the narrow gauge at Ray's landing on account of which passengers have to flounder through the mud for two miles to reach the train on the other side of the river by way of a ferry.

Mr. C. N. Scott is receiver of the narrow gauge and a part of the duties of his office is to receive the blame and the curses of all who have any fault to find with the management of the road. In fact he is not called upon to receive much of anything else so far as heard from.

It appears that he cannot come to a satisfactory arrangement with Mr. William Reid president of the Portland & Willamette Valley railway in regard to furnishing transportation facilities at this point and therefore that portion of the public who patronize the narrow gauge are put to inconvenience. It is hoped that there will be a decision in the case of the Narrow Gauge Company against the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company before long and that the roads will then fall into the hands of some one who can and will operate them satisfactorily so the public will have to be patient till that time.

It is hard to run a railroad without fund and that has been the condition of the Narrow Gauge for some time. It is easy to find fault but not so easy to run a railroad so that there is no occasion for complaint.

THE STEAMSHIP GEO. W. ELDER

She is Too Slow to Make the Trips According to the Schedule Time

The Geo. W. Elder was due last night but has not yet been reported at Astoria. She brings an unusually light cargo of groceries, iron etc.

"The simple fact of the matter is," said a gentleman well posted in navigation matters, "that the Elder cannot make the trip according to the schedule time. From the San Francisco bar to that at the mouth of the Columbia is 540 nautical or 600 statute miles and it is impossible for her to cover this distance in the forty eight or fifty hours expected of her that is with the present weather. When the prevailing southerly trade winds of the winter season have fully set in she might possibly make it.

"What will be done with the Elder when the three regular San Francisco steamers are all repaired, I do not know. She cannot well be placed on the Alaska route on account not only of the dullness of the Alaska trade at this season, but also owing to her being an iron boat and much less able to stand the strain which ships are apt to receive from rocks upon the winter voyage between the Alaskan ports and this country. The Elder needs repairs some of which will no doubt be given here during the interim between her going off for the Columbia and going on for the Oregon, something like eight days."

AND STILL THEY COME

A Silver Medal Which Was Struck to Commemorate the Death of John Huss

The recent old coin discussion has brought to light ancient pieces and collections that have been buried in oblivion for a long time. Edward A. Schloth an OREGONIAN compositor has quite an assortment of old foreign and American coins, medals, greenbacks and notes.

Among them is a well preserved silver medal struck to commemorate the martyrdom of John Huss, a Protestant who was burnt at the stake on account of his religious beliefs at Constance Austria in 1415. On the reverse side is the head of Huss and on the obverse a representation of his sacrifice at the stake. Both sides contain inscriptions referring to the event.

An interesting part of the currency collection is a $3 bank note issued by the Miners' bank of Dubuque Wisconsin territory. It does not contain the signature of the president or secretary of the banking association. The note is also undated but it must have been issued before 1838 as in that year Iowa territory was formed from Wisconsin territory which up to that time included the present states of Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota and part of Dakota.

THE VICTIMS OF ACCIDENTS

Badly Smashed His Forearm—Condition of Daniel Sunnborn and Gus Winters

An employe of the Northern Pacific Manufacturing Company named Enquest met with a serious accident Monday. He was getting a buggy up the incline into the paint shop in the second story when in some way he lost control of it and both he and the vehicle went off the incline. He fell a distance of twenty three feet and broke the bones of his arm in several places. He was carried to a house near by where his injuries were attended to by Dr. A. Nichols. It is doubtful whether the arm can be saved and if it is it will be stiff.

Daniel Sunnborn the victim of the collision of a Portland & Vancouver railway car with a woodsawing machine in East Portland Sunday is getting along quite well and his condition is good. He is in Good Samaritan hospital.

Gus Winters the boy who lost his leg Sunday by the accidental discharge of a friend's gun is getting along well.

THE THEATRES

The showers of yesterday did not deter a large and appreciative audience from attending the performance of "His Natural Life" at the New Park last evening. The admirable scenic effects aroused considerable enthusiasm and the company showed no falling off in their work from the first night's performance. "His Natural Life" again to night.

MORE ROOM FOR CHILDREN.

Crowded Classes Call the School Board Together Yesterday

Mrs. Simpson Chosen for Mrs. Buck's Vacancy—Miss Lamberson Re-elected—New Room at the High School

Pursuant to the call of the chairman the school board met in the parlors of the Commercial National bank yesterday afternoon at 3:15. Present were Chairman Dodd, Clerk H. S. Allen, City Superintendent of School Miss Ella C. Sabin, Directors Ladd, Therkelsen and Thompson.

The cause of the call being made as Chairman Dodd proceeded to state was the necessity of providing additional facilities for the pupils of Miss Moore's B class eighth grade in the North school, also the necessity of electing a successor to Mrs. Sarah M. Buck recently resigned in the Park school. It was the understanding at the board's Saturday night session that the proper representatives of the board should look up further details of the applications made for the latter vacancy. This it transpired had been done and the board proceeded to elect for that position Mrs. Clara M. Simpson of Vancouver. Mrs. Simpson is a native of Vermont, a graduate of Vassar and has had some sixteen years' experience in her profession, the last five of which have been spent on the Pacific coast, notably at San Jose. She has taught primary schools for ten years and has received a special normal preparation for the eighth grade to which she has been elected.

Miss Cornelia Lamberson was chosen as successor to Mrs. White in the eighth grade of the Harrison school. This position is thought to be more adapted to that lady's ability than her previous post, from which at her own request she was relieved at the last regular session.

The tide of immigration which has set in Portlandwards has affected among other numerous societies the sessions of the school board. That is the school population is so increasing as to render it extremely doubtful if the year of our Lord 1889 can pass without the erection of a new building possibly in the Couch district. Two new rooms are contemplated at the Park school, the two unfinished in the new North will be put in readiness as soon as the necessary funds are available. Meanwhile the only room which can now be utilized is the remaining one in the high school building.

The cause for the crying necessity for more room at present is the great number of little ones belonging to what is here designated as the B class Eighth grade. These children require a vast deal of individual care and this it is impossible to give them in a crowded room. Three schools have a surplus attendance in this department: Miss Stout of the Townsdale, Miss Davy of the Harrison and Miss Moore of the North. The last named room is particularly crowded, the closing enrollment fifty seven pupils of last term being now increased to sixty and three or four more coming. Several plans were discussed for the alleviation of the pressure and the most feasible one seemed to be, to the unanimous opinion of the board, the one above outlined, that is the fitting up of the yet unoccupied room of the high school building and the election of an additional teacher for the work.

This will be done. A proper number will be drawn from each of the three above mentioned rooms and Miss Carrie Lindsay was elected to have charge of the new room to begin next Monday. Chairman Dodd and Superintendent Sabin were authorized to purchase the necessary furniture for the room and to make the division of pupils.

At 5:30 the board adjourned.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.
